

Component 2: Fine Art Standard Mark – 33

	AO1	AO2	AO3	AO4	TOTAL
Mark	8	9	8	8	33
Level	3	3	3	3
	Mostly emerging competent ability	Fully emerging competent ability	Mostly emerging competent ability	Mostly emerging competent ability

Keyword descriptors from the taxonomy:

Predictable

Broadening

Growing control

Examiner comments

This Fine Art Component 2 submission consists of an A3 sketchbook and a mixed media final outcome on board. Images of the work selected here reflect the characteristics of work within Performance Level 3, Emerging Competent performance with a mark of 33/72.

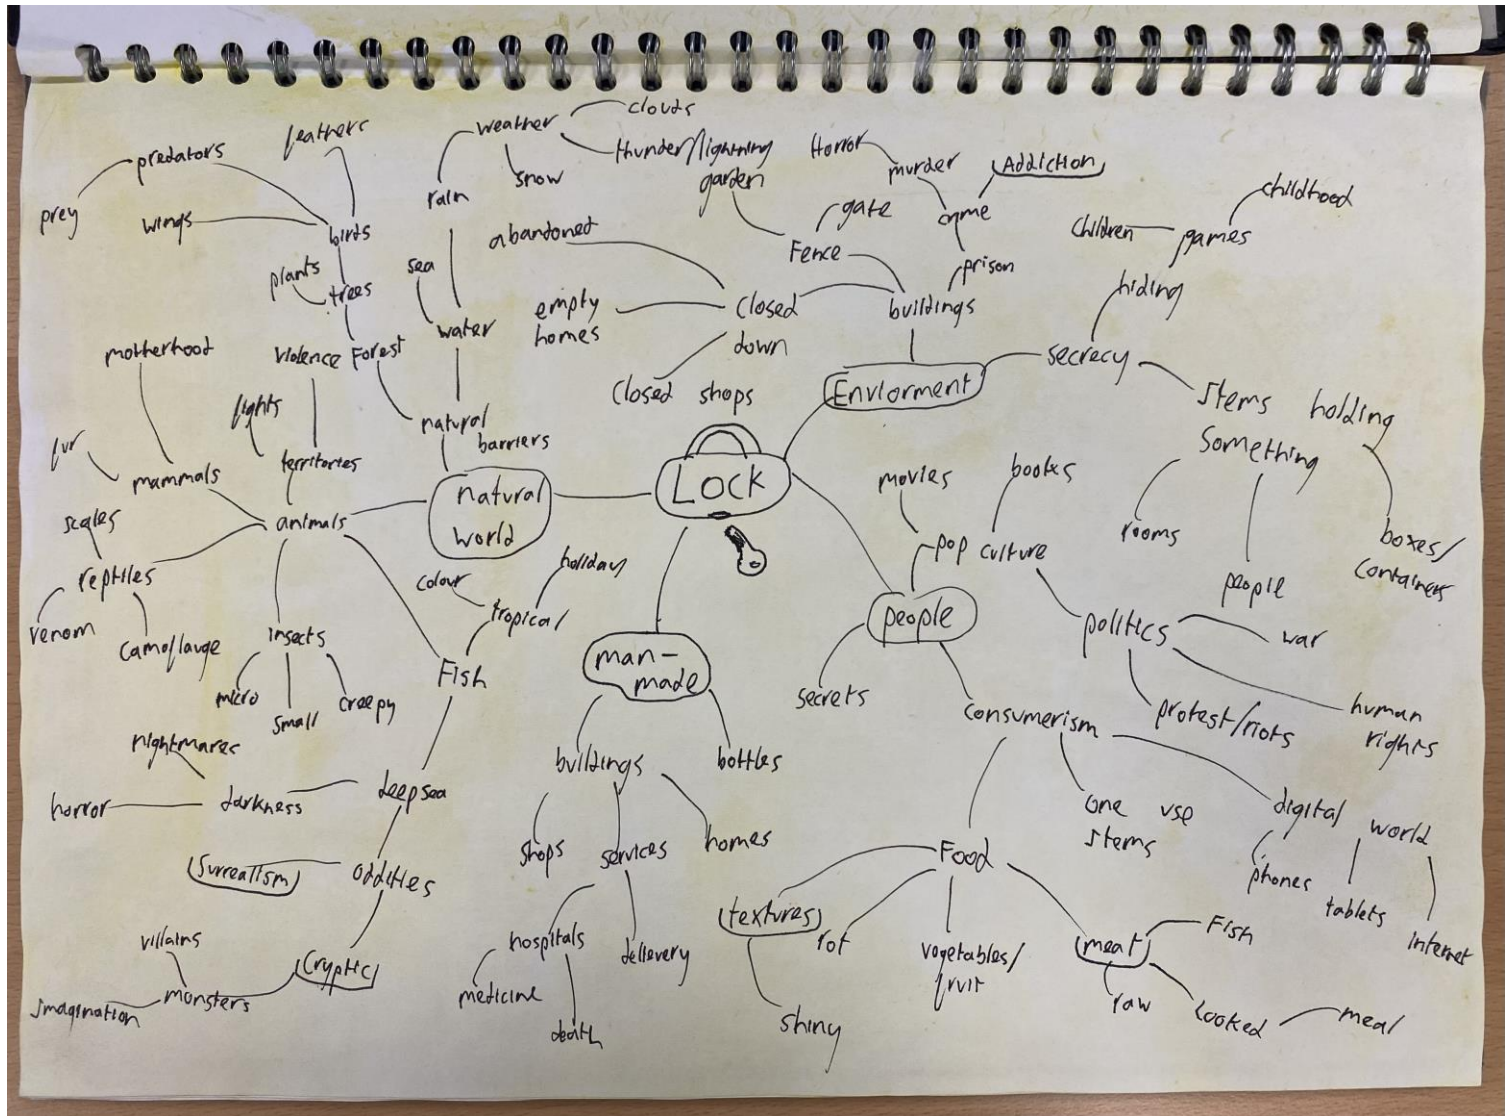

The candidate begins with written and visual mind maps in response to the examination theme of 'Lock', before investigating ideas related to 'man-made and natural textures'. A broadening selection of primary and secondary sources are used to inform the development of ideas, with references to the textural qualities in Giacomo Brunelli's photographs of dead animals and Max Ernst's Surreal natural world compositions.

Using their own photography as reference, the candidate responds with a series of predictable and disparate experiments on the theme of 'textures' with a range of drawing and textile media, techniques, and processes. These studies include pen and pencil drawings of a dog on a collaged surface, wilted sunflowers, tinned fish, and transcription of a Max Ernst 'frottage' drawing.

The candidate's work is underpinned by a growing control in their understanding and application of the formal elements of art and design. This is reflected in their observational drawings from primary sources and studies from their own photographs. Annotation is mainly biographical and descriptive. However, the candidate makes some reflective comments when explaining their intentions: "I explored the work of Max Ernst due to his interesting use of texture and collage in his surreal compositions. I could use the combination of collage and surrealism in my exploration of texture".

The final outcome produced during the 10-hour period of sustained focus is a mixed media painted, collaged, and drawn composition that demonstrates growing control in their understanding of visual language. The candidate evidences an emerging competent ability to create an outcome that embodies their investigation, interest, and influences.

For the submission to be more secure within Performance Level 3, Emerging Competent, the candidate could demonstrate greater critical understanding of the context of their own ideas and refinement of visual language skills through recording and presenting their visual journey.

PHOTOS

For these photos, I tried to focus on texture. I made sure to have photos with a bright lighting so the textures and form are clear to see. I also tried to focus on natural forms rather than man-made. However, both made it in.

cryptic

I chose these images due to how interpretative they are

ADDICION

MEAT

Visual mind map
For this mind map, I tried collecting main ideas that I put from my mind map
I tried to include man-made colors/textures

Experiment of white pencil marks

The delicate marks and soft shape. I also like the use of pencil to highlight the very light leaves of the petals. I made this to explore a more soft and smooth texture and to also see how much could be used to improve this. I couldn't implement

Colour through watercolour

For this image I wanted to similarly to the swiflow, explore the jagged and textured marks of a setting plant. However I also wanted to experiment with using watercolour and seeing how that works with a pen drawing to develop this. I could study different ways to use watercolour or use different methods such as collage to show colour.

the shape and jagged marks of the petals interest me. I'd like to see if capturing the chunky, rolling texture of them

I made this to explore ways of texture. I used pencil marks to express the texture what I could do is to implement colour into the piece via paint - pen to make the lines more so to develop this is to try or maybe even collage.

I enjoy the use of collage and the combination of pencil and pin drawing to express the delicate nature of the feather, to develop this

I could try to make the collage pop out less so the viewer can focus more on the feather.

PRIMARY SOURCES

WING 1: Newspaper

For this piece, I decided to draw a beetle due to the interesting textures it had. I first watercoloured the page to create an interesting backdrop. I then drew out the shape of the beetle in pencil. I tried to vary this work by collage using newspaper to create the wings. However I used magazine for the body to help express the shiny surface of the beetle. To improve, I could watercolour each part of the beetle with its original colour rather than just a basic brown. This would help gaps in the collage become less noticeable.

Contents the image shows a dog biting on the fence the dog appears to be angry due to its sharp teeth showing and its wild white eyes the dog itself is quite blurry which makes the image more scary. the image is also in black and white, both to make it more ghastly and to clearly highlight certain parts of the dog like the big eyes and teeth.

Form: the image is quite diverse, as mentioned before the image is blurry due to the structure and marks being quite soft. However some aspects have sharper marks to create a more violent looking piece, for example the eyes and fence.

Mood: the image is quite negative, the violent imagery of a Rabid dog combined with the black and white makes a very ghastly and intimidating image. this would be interesting to implement this affect in my work.

Refinement:

- to try out use this artist, I might try to discover methods to making obscure and cryptic images, I could do this by printing with ink or by combining watercolor and pencil ink.

Examples of dead creatures from Giacomo Brunelli. I also wanted to focus on Brunelli's use of dead creatures due to how much of it is and due to its motifs from my previous pieces.

Further ideas
 - exploring textures in the obscure and/or the dead
 - explore pure and simple animal images
 - try to get shapes relating to both.

ROSE QUARTZ

For this image I wanted to challenge myself by drawing the textured surface of a Rose Quartz. I like the combination of pencil and felt. I used the thick lines to express a hard edge and thin lines to express the milky like components of the quartz.

I felt that the texture and tone could've been expressed better with color.

- Relevant things to previous artworks: dead things, textures, natural

ARTIST RESEARCH (Intentions and works)

- born in Perugia Italy and spent a lot of childhood playing with animals
- his main inspirations are the Italian Renaissance, Italian medieval art and street photography
- tries a film noir aesthetic to make animals seem styled out
- explores cities, animals and people
- for animal photography, he intends to force animals into a "flight or fight" to capture interesting images. He does this by ignoring them or by chasing them
- often uses obscure angles and extreme close ups to make strange, unfamiliar and obscure images
- intends to make images dramatic, atmospheric and claustrophobic
- has a portrait collection that was inspired by an art movement in Italy called Arte Povera.

Resource photos:

eyes and teeth forming the image is quite diverse blurred due to the structure and some aspects have sharper marks pace for example the eyes and face mood: the image is quite rega-lar combined with the black and interesting image this would be in my work

Refinement:

- to try and use the methods to making of
to this by prints watercolour and

the DEAD:

I like this outcome
due to how I used pencil smudge to create a textured/tonal piece
also enjoy the structure of the skull to explore this further I could use different types of subject matters or experiment the smudge with other resources such as watercolour/ocrylic paint.

Further ideas
• exploring textures in the drawing
• using the dog
• water colour and images, animal images
• try to get images relating to both

Watercolour
Experiments

Reflections

chose Artist due to separation of both along with texture

What interests me about this piece is the exploration of the and hair, I feel to explore this further I should explore things with the feel of texture, most likely more animal for but it could be something like the a cat, human hair, I would also want to try and avoid colour, as my artist never used it.

PHOTOGRAPHS

Further Responses

For this piece, I wanted to try and use pen on a prepared surface. Similar to my leather, I decided to use roses as it links to my previous plant responses as well as my theme of the dead (as this rose was rotting). I think this piece went well, although the sudden change in pen is very noticeable and negatively affects this piece. I could've worked more on this piece, possibly finding a way to add colour, but I didn't. Maybe for some of my next responses I could use colour in some way.

For this piece I wanted to further explore texture. I chose this image to study a more difficult subject, this being a dog. I chose this with a hearing aid. However, I feel I could've tried to use pen to diversify my responses.

For this piece, I studied the same dog as before, however this time I used pen as well as its texture. I really like this piece, it is a great improvement from my other response nonetheless.

Point responses

For this piece, I wanted to experiment more with preparing a surface. I made sure to make it less intense like last time so the drawing is actually easy to see. I also wanted to experiment with acrylic paint and pen. I felt this piece was strong, the pen working well as well as the background colour. However, the acrylic paint was challenging, so maybe I should try to avoid it or at least not use it in this manner.

Further responses

Max Ernst

- learn interesting ways to explore texture along with experimenting with odd subjects
- it connects to my current theme of texture, but it also could link with my current studies on life and death, this could be a more surrealist way to tackle it
- I'm currently using pen marks and collage with hints of acrylic paint. This links well with Ernst, due to his methods consisting of drawing and painting.
- one way I could expand my use of media is ~~expanding~~ ^{expanding} ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~collage~~ ^{collage}
- Another idea could be collaging and creating a subject, then drawing/painting it.

Layouts

What has been most prominent in my work is the exploration of texture, life and death as well as the systems of Surrealism. My best media usage was in my pen and collaging work. When making these layouts I should acknowledge all of this.

Layout Idea 1: Gradient of the dead

A collaged background showing a gradient, above this would be a pen drawing of a dead organism such as a beetle/insect or plant.

If I were to chose this, I would need have to experiment with insects as I only have one response relating to insects.

Layout Idea 2: dog corpse

possibly could use cross eyes to add a surreal element

This would feature a collaged background with surreal elements over it would be a dog, possibly made from oil pastels/paint, over this dog would be small pen drawings of insects.

If I chose this layout, I would have to experiment with insects as well as certain media such as paint or oil pastel.

I would also need to collect lots of images of dogs to help develop this.

*the corners of this layout would have to be large *a dog is dead, would need to experiment on ways to express this possibly with rotten flesh

Layout Idea 3: Army of bugs

This layout would have a collage background, possibly mixing the ideas of a gradient with my sketches of Surrealism. This would be the background for a lot of pen drawings of insects all with different arrangements. Some could possibly be keeping through the collage.

out of these layouts, my favourite is layout idea 2 and 3.

Final piece measurements shape should be square

try to avoid going to large, scale is not best skill

Further layout ideas

majority skull + fly + flower x2

skull + sunflowers + bug x4

*Favourite

Max Ernst responses

For this piece, I wanted to create a Surrealist creature by combining different textures, like Max Ernst did. First I made an actual collage of different textures such as stem, fur and petals. Afterwards, I began to do a pencil drawing of the face and petals, however I then decided to do a piece with acrylic paint. I chose to paint the banana due to its simple colour composition and its interesting form such as the spot formation. Afterwards I tried to explore other ways of making textured images using paint. I got a piece of paper, colourwashed it brown and used string to create fluid lines which I used for the fur.

To move forward, I could continue using collage, paint and pencil drawing but try to make them work in a single piece rather than two separate ones. I could use elements from previous responses such as using collage to prepare a background.

Collage

Examples of fur exploration

Practice piece

For my practice piece I need to practice drawing skulls and insects at a large scale. I also need to draw it closest to the actual size of the final piece as possible. I also need to practice making colored backgrounds and figure out a way to make my drawings stand out.

A skull drawn at the closest scale to the final piece. Unfortunately there is no colored background

Further layout Ideas

Refining for final outcome

Es: be more careful with shapes and proportions!

