Elaine is a Textile Design student, just entering the level 4 performance level. Her Component 2 project is based on the theme of Union, and she begins with a mind map and timeline, exploring fashion and culture from the 1950s through to the 2000s. Drawing inspiration from icons like Elvis Presley, David Bowie, the Sex Pistols (and the concept of Anarchy in the UK), she references designers such as Vivienne Westwood and John Paul Gaultier to explore how garments can enhance the shape of the human body. Elaine's project evolves towards the idea of creating a union between the denim fabric and the human body, mapping the contours of anatomy as if it were a landscape.

Early life drawings are part of her development, though still emerging as a skill, she experiments with stitching human figures onto denim using blue and red thread. She refines these ideas through garments, exploring legs, feet, and the body in three dimensions, drawing inspiration from exhibitions like Body Works exhibition by Gunther von Hagen's.

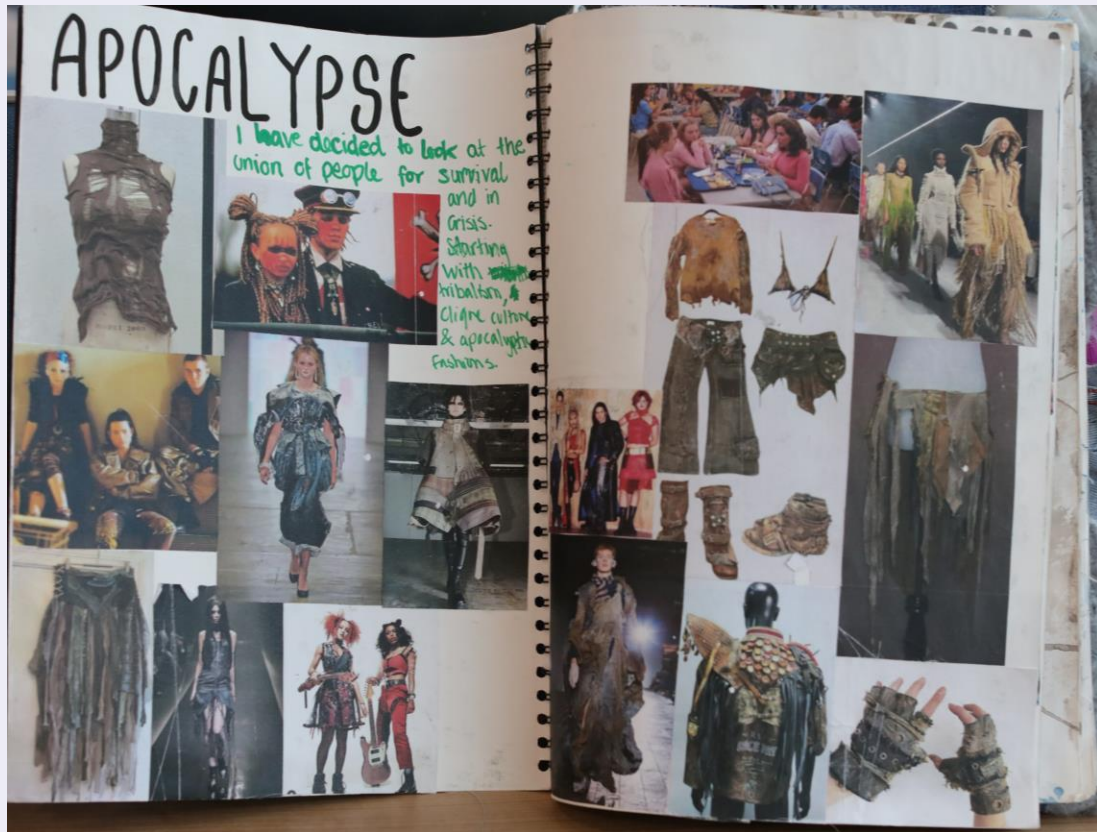

Her final piece, a trouser set and jacket, is an accomplished offering which lifts her submission above the ordinary. It cleverly integrates the contours of the human body within the garments, creating a subtle yet striking exploration of anatomy and textile design that goes beyond her earlier preliminary studies. This is a candidate who emerges from Level 3 into Level 4.
