Oscar is 67 years of age. He is recovering at home from a stroke which has left his leg muscles weak and his speech slurred. His GP has said he could recover well if he has physiotherapy regularly. Oscar is very depressed and can't be bothered to go to physiotherapy. He was a member of a walking club and enjoyed the company of his friends on their weekly long-distance walks. He believes that he will not be able to go on these walks any more and that his friends will no longer want to see him. He feels that there is no point to his life.

(a) Oscar is an example of someone who has dysfunctional beliefs and an external locus of control.

(i) Define what is meant by a dysfunctional belief.
