Introduction

The Pearson Edexcel Level 3 Advanced GCE in Italian is designed for use in schools and colleges. It is part of a suite of AS/A Level qualifications offered by Pearson.

These sample assessment materials have been developed to support this qualification and will be used as the benchmark to develop the assessment students will take.
General marking guidance

- All candidates must receive the same treatment. Examiners must mark the last candidate in exactly the same way as they mark the first.
- Mark schemes should be applied positively. Candidates must be rewarded for what they have shown they can do rather than be penalised for omissions.
- Examiners should mark according to the mark scheme – not according to their perception of where the grade boundaries may lie.
- All the marks on the mark scheme are designed to be awarded. Examiners should always award full marks if deserved, i.e. if the answer matches the mark scheme. Examiners should also be prepared to award zero marks if the candidate’s response is not worthy of credit according to the mark scheme.
- Where some judgement is required, mark schemes will provide the principles by which marks will be awarded and exemplification/indicative content will not be exhaustive. However different examples of responses will be provided at standardisation.
- When examiners are in doubt regarding the application of the mark scheme to a candidate’s response, a senior examiner must be consulted before a mark is given.
- Crossed-out work should be marked unless the candidate has replaced it with an alternative response.

Troppi giornalisti minacciati in Italia

M1 Siamo i 73esimi su 180 nazioni: nell’ultima classifica di Reporter senza Frontiere, l’Italia appare ora nella zona arancione, quella cioè degli stati che hanno notevoli problemi di libertà di stampa, minacce e persino aggressioni fisiche, tutti fenomeni in aumento nel nostro Paese.

M2 Abbiamo perso 24 posizioni rispetto al 2013 e quest’anno la tendenza non sembra destinata a cambiare.

F1 Non solo violenza fisica e verbale, nel nostro Paese chi vuole spaventare un giornalista usa anche metodi più sofisticati, ad esempio ricorrendo ingiustamente alla legge per minacciare chi dà notizie scomode.

M1 Quindi il Parlamento dovrebbe rivedere la legge sulla libertà di espressione, seguendo le norme internazionali.

Brano 2

Il pane e la Camorra

M1 Al Sud il pane non si butta mai. Quando si indurisce, si mette in forno con uova, pomodoro e formaggio avanzato. Buttare il pane, con la fame che c’è sempre stata, è peccato.

F1 Al Nord il pane non è così fondamentale all’alimentazione nè così simbolico. Si compra meno pane e se ne butta via molto.

M1 A Napoli la Camorra controlla il giro di affari del pane, che si vende su banchi abusivi, quando i panifici legali sono chiusi. Dove viene prodotto questo pane abusivo?

M2 Nei forni illegali, controllati dalla malavita. Da anni a Napoli si mangia pane prodotto e imposto dalla Camorra. Anche il prezzo è deciso da loro.

F1 Al Nord questo controllo totale sarebbe più difficile, la gente non lo accetterebbe.

I giovani e l’università

F1 Cosa può raccontare del suo periodo universitario ai ragazzi che stanno per scegliere una facoltà?

M1 Ero un universitario negli anni ’70. Quello che ho vissuto io è stato un periodo abbastanza difficile, il più turbolento della storia universitaria italiana, con lezioni sospese e lotte studentesche. Ma devo dire che in quel periodo ci fu un approccio molto interessante verso la sperimentazione, lo spettacolo teatrale, il cinema, le arti figurative e la scrittura. Nonostante il caos e l’anarchia generale, da quel periodo sono venute fuori tante teste che oggi lavorano ai massimi livelli nel campo della scienza e della cultura. Un’epoca confusa ma che ha permesso a cervelli straordinari di emergere.

F1 Oggi le università si occupano anche di aiutare i ragazzi a scegliere coscientemente il proprio percorso universitario. Lei che consigli darebbe a chi sta per scegliere un percorso di studi?

M1 A un futuro studente universitario consiglierei di fare attenzione alle opportunità offerte dal proprio paese ma anche dall’Europa, dall’America e dall’Australia. Cercate di sfruttare al massimo la vostra passione augurandovi di potere restare qui, in Italia. Il consiglio migliore è fare sempre quello che ci si sente di fare. Ad esempio, per quanto riguarda la mia esperienza, io non ero predisposto agli studi scientifici. Ho sempre amato la storia, la letteratura, l’antropologia, la storia delle religioni, quindi se mio padre mi avesse detto di studiare medicina, per le maggiori opportunità di lavoro, avrei fatto un gran disastro, non sarei mai stato un bravo medico.

Le donne italiane durante la Resistenza

M1 Com’era la vita durante la Resistenza?

F1 Durante il periodo dell’occupazione tedesca, gli uomini non potevano girare liberamente, perché tutti quelli che erano in età dai 19 ai 60 anni venivano catturati, fatti prigionieri e mandati al fronte in Germania, dove venivano obbligati a lavorare nelle fabbriche o che ne so…

F2 Le donne invece potevano almeno all’inizio muoversi liberamente, perché non avevano l’obbligo del servizio militare. Le donne erano considerate delle figure secondarie, e questo si può ricavare da tutta la letteratura fascista, come dire… Secondo la propaganda, le donne avevano un po’ meno cervello rispetto agli uomini. La loro professione era il matrimonio e il loro compito era quello di educare la prole, avere figli in più grande numero possibile, educare i bambini punto e basta.

Brano 4 (b)

M1 Qual è stata la vostra esperienza?

F1 Ho aiutato i partigiani come staffetta. Era un compito difficilissimo e molto pericoloso e per questo tutti ci ammiravano. Consisteva nel portare ordini, vestiti, cibo e munizioni da una località all’altra riuscendo a superare i posti di blocco dei tedeschi. Ci muovevamo in bici o a piedi o a volte con i rari mezzi pubblici e nascondevamo il materiale in borse o cestini da pranzo. Però sappiate che non sono un’eroina, perché tante donne hanno fatto come me e più di me.

F2 In quel periodo ho trovato le risposte ai miei perché di bambina. Voglio solo ricordare che nel giugno del ’44 ho partecipato con altre ragazze a una riunione tenuta sotto un albero in un luogo isolato in aperta campagna, per non mettere in pericolo le nostre famiglie. Se ci avessero scoperte, ci sarebbero state rappresaglie: i tedeschi avrebbero potuto uccidere i nostri familiari. In quella riunione per la prima volta mi si è parlato dei diritti delle donne, di emancipazione, di diritto al voto e allora ho capito che ero nel giusto.

Gli ospiti svizzeri e stranieri e la popolazione locale potranno gustare quanto di meglio la regione sa offrire: delizie per il palato, gruppi musicali, artisti e intrattenimenti invitati appositamente per l’occasione, che daranno vita a una serie di spettacoli.

In Piazza le tende per i giochi aspettano i bambini e sono l’occasione per far divertire grandi e piccini insieme. Gli abitanti in costume ticinese distribuiranno uva, e per finire, ci saranno escursioni gratuite in battello e a piedi.

I mestieri più richiesti in Italia oggi

Con grande stupore in Italia tra i lavoratori più ricercati si posizionano subito al primo posto i braccianti agricoli; l’agricoltura italiana ha un gran bisogno di manodopera perché il settore è in crescita. Aprire un’azienda agricola sta tornando di moda e, di conseguenza, sorge la necessità di avere dei lavoratori che possano aiutare nel lavoro nei campi.

Al settore agricolo segue la ristorazione. Sono davvero molto ricercate tutte le figure professionali attinenti: camerieri, cuochi, baristi. Aprire un bar o un ristorante può sembrare un pensiero in qualche modo scontato ma la storia recente insegna che questi settori non sono stati toccati dalla crisi.

Tra i mestieri più richiesti rimangono molti lavori fisicamente faticosi, che gli italiani spesso non vogliono più svolgere: ad esempio muratori e badanti. Anche in questi settori va sottolineata la necessità di specializzarsi sempre di più seguendo le ultime tendenze: un muratore specializzato, infatti, è da considerarsi un professionista.

Quali frasi sono corrette? Indica con una crocetta le quattro frasi corrette:

- [ ] A Sorprendentemente, gli imprenditori agricoli non sono più molto richiesti.
- [ ] B Le aziende agricole italiane non riescono a trovare abbastanza manodopera.
- [ ] C Ultimamente sono state aperte meno aziende agricole.
- [ ] D Nella ristorazione, solo alcuni tipi di lavoratori sono ricercati.
- [ ] E Per chi apre un bar o un ristorante, le prospettive economiche sono buone.

Leggi questo estratto dal racconto “A Milano non c’è il mare” di Gabriella Kuruvilla, in cui il protagonista parla del significato di essere immigrato. Rispondi alle domande in italiano.

Immigrato o italiano?

Quando ho ascoltato la canzone Non sono un immigrato ho pensato che Amir mi avesse rubato le parole di bocca e che parlassi di me e della mia situazione. Poi, ho lasciato perdere: penso spesso un sacco di cose che non faccio. Forse sono pigro, forse sono vigliacco.

Amir, in questa canzone, dice: «La gente mi ha confuso con un immigrato, con la faccia da straniero nella mia nazione, mi danno dello straniero per il mio cognome». Se proprio dobbiamo essere sinceri, io ho un cognome straniero e una faccia da straniero ma sono anche un immigrato, perché non sono nato qui ma in India.

In ogni caso, devo dire che io in India, ci sono stato davvero poco: i primi due anni, infatti, li ho vissuti a Trivandrum mentre gli altri dieci li ho passati a Milano. E se, come dice la mia professoressa di matematica, la matematica non è un’opinione, dieci è il quintuplo di due: quindi io sono cinque volte più italiano che indiano.

(a) Che effetto ha avuto la canzone Non sono un immigrato sul protagonista?

(b) Perché il protagonista pensa di essere pigro o vigliacco?

(c) Perché la gente pensa che Amir sia un immigrato? Da’ due particolari.

(d) Perché il protagonista si sente anche un immigrato?

(e) Perché il protagonista pensa di essere “cinque volte più italiano che indiano”?

Le nuove famiglie in Italia

Ci si sorprende quando ci si accorge che la tradizionale idea della famiglia lascia spazio a modelli nuovi. La famiglia allargata, grande e aperta è ancora apprezzata, ma quello che emerge è un'Italia aperta al cambiamento dove le famiglie non sono più solo quelle di una volta, regolarmente sposate con figli.

Famiglie tradizionali in crisi e coppie di fatto in crescita. E poi ci sono anche le famiglie omogenitoriali che non possono più essere ignorate, nemmeno in Italia dove lo sono di fatto dalla legge. Si calcola che oggi siano centomila i minori con almeno un genitore gay; ci sono quelli nati da unioni eterosessuali, poi sfociate in un divorzio, ma molti, sempre di più, sono invece vissuti fin dall'inizio con due mamme e due papà.

Figli voluti ad ogni costo e certamente per amore, solo per amore. Perché la famiglia è il luogo dove si trova l'amore. In qualunque modo sia essa composta, se c'è amore c'è tutto.

Tradizionale o moderna, in crisi o stabile, allargata o guidata da un solo genitore: la famiglia rispecchia i valori, ma anche le insicurezze, sulle quali si basa una società. Rappresenta il tessuto sociale di protezione, ma riflette anche l'evoluzione culturale di un popolo.

Nonostante i cambiamenti però, amore, protezione e sicurezza sono le caratteristiche che fanno della famiglia il punto cardine della piramide dei valori.

(a) Quale caratteristiche dell'Italia emerge dai cambiamenti nella famiglia? (1)

(b) Da chi era costituita la famiglia del passato secondo il testo? (1)

(c) Quale tendenza c'è stata di recente per le coppie di fatto? (1)

(d) Quale problema hanno le famiglie omogenitoriali dal punto di vista legale? (1)
(e) A parte le famiglie omogenitoriali, in quali tipi di ‘nuova’ famiglia crescono oggi molti bambini? Da due particolari.

(f) Quali elementi fondamentali della famiglia non sono cambiati, secondo il testo? Da due particolari.

Attraversa un’adolescenza difficile: è timido, viene spesso emarginato dai compagni di classe, soffre di bulimia con conseguente sovrappeso. Trova uno sfogo nella musica.

Nel 2001 pubblica il suo primo album Rosso Relativo, esordendo con il singolo Xdono che viene inciso anche in spagnolo, inglese, francese e portoghese e sale al terzo posto in Europa nella classifica dei singoli più venduti.

Nel 2003 esce l’autobiografico 111, che prende il nome dal peso del cantante raggiunto durante la sua adolescenza. Sarà l’album che venderà oltre un milione di copie.

Nel 2005 Tiziano si trasferisce a Londra, un’occasione per provare a vivere una vita normale, tra bollette e liste della spesa. In quel periodo Tiziano decide di prendersi una pausa per dedicarsi a se stesso.

Nel 2010 riprende in mano tutti i suoi diari e li pubblica: così nasce “Trent’anni e una chiacchierata con papà”. Il libro ripercorre la vita di Tiziano, la sua crescita artistica e umana. La sua vita è analizzata alla ricerca di una chiave che possa aprirgli le porte delle felicità, porte che passano lungo il corridoio dell’accettazione di se stesso.

Da anni, il cantante aderisce a molte iniziative di solidarietà e beneficenza: per esempio, nel 2002 è stato scelto come unico artista italiano per promuovere con uno spot la campagna europea contro il consumo di tabacco da parte dei giovani.

(a) Come è entrato in contatto con la musica da bambino?

(b) Perché la sua adolescenza è stata difficile? Da due particolari.

(c) Per quale motivo Xdono ha avuto molto successo anche a livello europeo?

Il 23 marzo del 1919, Benito Mussolini fondò a Milano un nuovo movimento politico. Nei due anni che seguirono, il movimento assunse un’importanza sempre maggiore e nel 1921 divenne il Partito Nazionale Fascista.

Con la Marcia su Roma del 28 ottobre 1922, Mussolini ottenne il suo scopo: arrivare al potere ed essere nominato capo del governo dal Re Vittorio Emanuele III. Il Re avrebbe potuto opporsi all’entrata in Roma delle milizie fasciste, ma decise di non farlo e di consegnare il governo dell’Italia nelle mani di Benito Mussolini.

Nonostante forti opposizioni al suo regime, Mussolini riuscì a rimanere al potere fino al 1943, instaurando la dittatura fascista.

Paper 1 marking principles for Sections A and B

Candidate responses

- For open-response questions, the candidate does not have to write in full sentences. If appropriate, they may respond using single words or phrases (with the exception of Question 4(b), summary writing).

Examples of short phrases with two or more words:

  - Imponeva il pane (verb/noun)
  - Non sanno competere (verb/negation)
  - (era) pericoloso (verb/adjective).

- In Question 4(b), candidates must use short phrases but no single words, as this would not be appropriate for summary writing.

- When responding to open-response questions, candidates may use words from the listening passage or reading extract but they must not transcribe or copy whole sections where the question requires them to manipulate the language in order to render the response accurate to the question.

Example:

Text: Penso spesso un sacco di cose che non faccio
Question: Perché il protagonista pensa di essere pigro o vigliacco?
Rewardable answer: (Perché) pensa un sacco di cose che non fa.
Non-rewardable answer: Penso spesso un sacco di cose che non faccio.

Candidates who copy the whole sentence, as exemplified above as the Non-rewardable answer, would not be awarded marks without manipulating the verb in the sentence ‘fare.’ This is because it does not render an accurate answer to the question. However, as the exemplified Rewardable answer shows, candidates may still use words from the listening passage or reading extract.

- There are no marks for quality of language in this paper so errors and omissions in spelling and grammar will be tolerated as long as the message is not ambiguous or interferes with communication.

- Consider only as many elements as there are marks, for example for a 1-mark answer, the candidate’s first response is taken for assessment, even if this response is incorrect but the correct information follows as a further element. Where 2 marks are available, award the individual marks discretely but apply the order of elements rule.

- Written responses in the wrong language cannot be awarded a mark.
Guidance to examiners on understanding and applying the mark scheme

- Alternative ways of giving the same answer are indicated with a slash (/) inbetween the alternative responses, for example: Non sanno competere/presentarsi

- Where appropriate, responses have been separated with ‘AND’ for compulsory answers and ‘OR’ for possible answers, for example:
  - pericoloso (1)

    OR

  - difficilissimo (1)

    AND

  - portare ordini/vestiti/cibo/e munizioni (da una località all’altra) (1).

- Any parts of an answer that are not essential are bracketed and any parts that are key words are underlined, for example: Avere la laurea senza aver mai lavorato (1).

- Candidates are likely to write variants on the acceptable answers listed and these should be considered as acceptable if they convey the correct answer.

- All possible answers have the correct amount of marks appropriate for the information required indicated in brackets.

- Suggested incorrect answers are indicated in the ‘Reject’ column.

Marking principles

Misspelling is tolerated as long as it does not lead to ambiguity, for example drought misspelled as drowght would be acceptable but misspelled as draught would be unacceptable as this would lead to ambiguity.

Learners are likely to write variants on the acceptable answers listed and these should be considered as acceptable if they convey the same intended meaning.

Translation is successful if an English speaker would understand the translation without having understood the text in its original language.

SECTION A: TRANSLATION

1 Traduci il brano seguente in italiano.

The city of Florence has reacted to the increasing number of shops, often run by immigrants, which have recently been opened in its medieval streets.

While some Italians are pleased to be able to buy milk at 10 o'clock at night, in a country where shops close earlier, others think this will destroy historical cities.

In order to preserve local traditions and the city’s cultural identity, at least 70 per cent of products used in all new restaurants and food shops will have to come from Tuscany.

The Italian government is now discussing how to safeguard cultural heritage without limiting private enterprise.
Tuscany. Cent of products used in all new restaurants and food shops will have to come from

Section A – Question 1 (translation) into assessed language

This task is a points-based mark scheme in which 1 mark is given for each correct individual section of language. A correct translation is provided in a grid, which also outlines the alternative translations that will be accepted or the translations to be rejected. Marking principles for error tolerance with examples are given directly above the grid.

Marking principles

Accents: non-grammatical accent errors are tolerated, for example intèressante rather than interessante.

Spelling: non-grammatical misspellings are tolerated, for example orechie rather than orecchie, as long as they are not ambiguous (for example sete rather than sette) or in the wrong language.

Verb endings must be correct and will not be classed as spelling errors.

Adjective endings must be correct and will not be classed as spelling errors.

Accept any appropriate alternatives that do not already appear in the acceptable answers column.

Sections B and C, Questions 2 to 15 (written response to works)

There are three levels-based mark grids to be applied to each individual essay that makes up the written response to works. The mark grids are:

- critical and analytical response (AO4)
- range of grammatical structures and vocabulary (AO3)
- accuracy of language (AO3).

General guidance on using levels-based mark schemes

Step 1 Decide on a band

- You should first of all consider the answer as a whole and then decide which descriptors most closely match the answer and place it in that band. The descriptors for each band indicate the different features that will be seen in the student’s answer for that band.
- When assigning a level you should look at the overall quality of the answer and not focus disproportionately on small and specific parts of the answer where the student has not performed quite as well as the rest. If the answer covers different aspects of different bands of the mark scheme you should use a ‘best fit’ approach for defining the level and then use the variability of the response to help decide the mark within the level, for example if the response is predominantly band 5–8 with a small amount of band 9–12 material, it would be placed in band 5–8 but be awarded a mark near the top of the band because of the band 9–12 content.

Step 2 Decide on a mark

- Once you have decided on a band you will then need to decide on a mark within the band.
- You will decide on the mark to award based on the quality of the answer; you will award a mark towards the top or bottom of that band, depending on how students have evidenced each of the descriptor bullet points.
- You will modify the mark based on how securely the trait descriptors are met at that band.
- You will need to go back through the answer as you apply the mark scheme to clarify points and assure yourself that the band and the mark are appropriate.
Critical and analytical response (AO4)

- This mark grid assesses students’ ability to respond critically and analytically to the aspect of the literary work or film outlined in the question. To provide a critical and analytical response, students should select relevant material, present and justify points of view, develop arguments, draw conclusions based on understanding and evaluate issues, themes and cultural and social contexts.

- This grid should be applied twice, once for each essay individually.

- When deciding how to reward an answer, you should consult this mark grid as well as the indicative content associated with each question (see below). Indicative content contains points that students are likely to use to construct their answer. It is possible for an answer to be constructed without mentioning some or all of these points as long as students provide alternative responses that fulfil the requirements of the question.

| 17–20 | Consistent variation in use of grammatical structures, including in use of complex language, producing consistently articulate writing.
Consistently varied use of vocabulary, allowing ideas to be conveyed in a variety of different ways.
Consistent use of terminology appropriate for literary and cinematic analysis. |
Additional guidance

Variation of vocabulary and grammatical structures: the traits in the mark grid differentiate between the variation of grammatical structures and vocabulary used by students. Examiners should judge in which mark band to place students and which mark to award, based on the effect that the variety of grammatical structures and vocabulary has on the quality of the communication; the wider the variety, the more articulate the communication will become (see definition of articulate below).

Examples of a variety of grammatical structures and vocabulary are: a selection of different verbs, tenses, adjectives, vocabulary (including to express literary and cinematic analysis (see further detail below), complex language (see definition below) for a variety of purposes, including to present and justify points of view, develop arguments, draw conclusions based on understanding.

Articulate: articulate communication is fluent, effective and coherent as students control/manipulate the language to say what they want to say rather than what they can say, for a number of different purposes. If students are restricted to what they can say, they may not be able to express themselves for all purposes, for example to develop arguments.

Terminology for literary and cinematic analysis: vocabulary for critical analysis according to the work being studied, for example ‘plot’, ‘character’; figures of speech such as ‘metaphor’, ‘similes’; to describe theme and style such as, ‘camera technique’, ‘hand-held camera’, ‘use of black and white’, ‘first person narrative.’

Complex language is considered to include the following:
- conceptually challenging tenses such as the pluperfect, future perfect
- passive voice
- subjunctive mood
- use of relative pronouns
- using extended sentences to express abstract ideas/convey justified arguments that require a range of lexis and structures, for example conjunctions and pronouns
- using synonyms and a variety of expressions to say things in different ways
- all grammar and structures included in the grammar list that are specific to A Level.

Straightforward language is considered to be:
- simple sentences with limited linking of sentences and clauses
- high-frequency grammatical structures and vocabulary.
Accuracy of language (AO3)

- This mark grid assesses students’ ability to apply grammar and syntax accurately.
- This grid should be applied twice, once for each essay individually.

|       | Errors occur that sometimes hinder clarity of communication and occasionally prevent meaning being conveyed. |
| 5–6   | Frequent sequences of accurate language resulting in generally coherent writing.

|       | Errors occur that rarely hinder clarity of communication |
| 9–10  | Accurate language throughout, resulting in consistently coherent writing.
|       | Any errors do not hinder clarity of communication |

Additional guidance

Errors: students are not expected to produce perfect, error-free writing in order to access the top band as errors are also made by native speakers. The mark grid describes the frequency of errors and the impact that errors have on coherence.

Errors that do not hinder clarity:
- errors that do not affect meaning, for example gender, adjectival agreements
- infrequent errors that do not distract the reader from the content and which result in coherent writing.

Errors that hinder clarity:
- errors that make writing difficult to understand immediately (even if the meaning is eventually understood)/errors that force readers to re-read in order to understand what is meant, for example inappropriate tense formation, mismatch of subject and the possessive adjective
- frequent errors hinder clarity as they will distract the reader from the content of the writing.

Errors that prevent meaning being conveyed:
- errors that mean the reader cannot understand the message
- errors that convey the wrong message
- errors that make it unclear who is carrying out the action, for example using the incorrect person of the verb
- mother-tongue interference.

NB: these are examples only and do not constitute a finite list.

Indicative content is not exhaustive. Students should be rewarded for any valid response and may draw on a range of relevant examples from the work.

Students may refer to the following in their answers.

Friendship is one of the main themes in Io non ho paura as Michele, the main character, will risk his life to save Filippo. Friendship appears in various aspects of the novel.

- Michele’s and Filippo gradually become friends as they discover that they have a lot in common. This friendship is very important for the kidnapped child e.g. Filippo calls him his ‘angelo custode’, his ‘guardian angel’.

- The friendship also becomes important for Michele as he continues to visit Filippo even after discovering that his father is one of the kidnappers and stops playing so often with his old friends in order to visit Filippo in the hole.

- Michele is betrayed by Salvatore, his best friend, when Salvatore tells the adults about Filippo. This is the point where Michele realises that you cannot always rely on friends and that friends might betray you.

- Friendship is fundamental at the end of the novel when Michele goes out in the middle of the night to rescue Filippo. He must overcome all his fears and defy his parents in order to save his friend. The true value of friendship, in its most selfless form, is illustrated here.

</tbody>
</table>

Students may refer to the following in their answers.

The novel is set in a remote part of Southern Italy during ‘gli anni di piombo’ (the Years of Lead). The representation of the village of Acque Traverse exemplifies the situation in the south of the country at this time.

- We see the poverty of the region as illustrated through the basic houses in which the inhabitants live. They do not have much money or food and the men often must go to the north to find work.

- The remote setting of the village and the lack of hope of change represent the stagnation of many parts of the south of Italy at that time.

- There were a lot of kidnappings during this period as people struggled to live honestly. We see this very clearly as the kidnap of Filippo, a boy from an affluent family from the north, is central to the plot.

- The gender roles are very traditional in the novel. The men go to work and the women must stay at home and look after the children. This is representative of the position of women in the society of this part of the country at the time.

<td>Volevo i pantaloni (Lara Cardella)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Students may refer to the following in their answers.

Annetta lives in a society in which gender roles are very clearly defined. Annetta struggles to accept this throughout the novel.

- Her desire to be free from the traditional role of women is expressed by her desire to wear trousers, which she sees as a symbol of the freedom she craves. She attempts to wear trousers by trying to become a nun and trying to become a man. This highlights her refusal to simply conform and passively accept the status quo.

- When Annetta is told that only ‘puttane’ wear trousers she decides to become a ‘puttana’, i.e. a prostitute or in this society any woman who dresses or behaves in a licentious manner. Thanks to Angelina she can finally try to live a more liberated life by going to parties and wearing make-up. This is another step in her refusal to accept the traditional position of women in society.

- Her attempts to achieve this freedom are thwarted by other people, e.g. her parents, whose decision to send her to stay with zia Vannina leads to the dramatic climax of the book. This shows the numerous obstacles she must overcome in her refusal to accept the role she is expected to take.

- In the end, Annetta marries Nicola and this is significant as Annetta ultimately must accept to do what is expected of her by society. While she refuses to accept these expectations on many levels, she is after all a product of her society so must conform to its expectations to some extent.

Students may refer to the following in their answers.

Zia Vannina in a character who is very important to Annetta. She is the only relative who treats Annetta well in the novel. She can talk to her and trusts her. Their relationship is essential to the development of the story.

- Zia Vannina herself rebelled against local society. For years, she had an affair with a married man, under the illusion that she would one day run off with him to live in the north. She is willing to help because she can fully sympathise with Annetta’s plight.

- They share many similar experiences, including physical and sexual abuse. They both suffer at the hands of zio Vincenzino and both were unable to do anything about it in the past. This is significant because zia Vannina can empathise with Annetta and she is the only person who wants to defend her. This is important to Annetta in emotional terms.

- The relationship with zia Vannina gives Annetta the strength to fight against zio Vincenzino’s latest abuse and to report this to the police. This shows how the relationship is fundamental in bringing different elements of the story together and leads to the final outcome.

Students may refer to the following in their answers.

Marcovaldo is a poor, unskilled labourer who has so little money that he is constantly on the brink of disaster. Many of the stories end badly although some less so than others. Candidates are free to draw their own conclusions as to which extent they feel that the stories generally end well or badly as long as they can justify their answer.

- Many of the stories end badly as the harsh realities of urban life where nature turns against him and shatters his illusions.

- Other stories are often exaggerated to the point where they become absolute fantasy. They are more surreal and end abruptly in neither a positive or negative way, e.g. Marcovaldo al Supermarket.

- In Il coniglio velenoso and dov’è più azzurro il fiume, we see Marcovaldo trying to source food from nature but he ends up disappointed and empty handed or even in hospital as nature has been tampered with by man and does not fulfil Marcovaldo’s idealistic expectations. Other stories are more surreal and end abruptly.

- A few stories end less negatively, e.g. I figli di Babbo Natale, where the ending sees a negative being turned into a positive.

Students may refer to the following in their answers.

The stylistic techniques and language used by Calvino in the book help the reader to better appreciate the characters and their feelings.

- The stories are told from the point of view of an omniscient narrator and written in third-person narrative. This not only offers the reader a description of events that happen in the stories but also offers an insight into the characters’ feelings and thoughts. This allows the reader to empathise with them.

- The stories begin in a comical way and often end up badly, thus provoking a bittersweet reaction in the reader. This also serves to make the protagonist more appealing to the reader. He is described at times as dishonest but is also naive and likeable.

- The stories have the same structure. They start with the omniscient narrator setting the scene. In the middle phase, we see Marcovaldo’s naïve interpretation of reality and then we return to the narrator which gives the stories their tragicomic element.

- Each story casts light on the other and allows the reader to reach a deeper understanding of the themes of the stories as well as more insight into the main character.

Students may refer to the following in their answers.

In the novel, we see Alex changing as he faces the challenges of adolescence. Candidates are free to draw their own conclusion as to the extent to which the events change the old Alex.

- Until the start of the book, Alex is a good student and a well-behaved teenager. His seventeenth birthday is a turning point in his life as he begins to rebel against his parents and the bourgeois society in which he lives.
- Meeting Aidi is a key event for Alex as she is able to break down the wall and she can see the real Alex. She becomes a central point of reference and their relationship helps steer Alex towards maturity.
- When Martino kills himself at the end Alex becomes more mature as this leads him to the realisation that he needs to be what he wants to be and not what others expect him to be. This is a key step towards adulthood.
- When Aidi leaves to go to study in America, Alex returns to his old life ‘senza amore e senza gioia’. It could be argued therefore that Alex has not been changed that much by events but also, that due to the key events and Alex’s experiences, he has changed.

Students may refer to the following in their answers.

This novel tells the relationship between Alex, an Italian teenager, and Aidi, whom he falls for. Candidates may agree or disagree that this is a realistic portrait of adolescence as long as they justify their stance based on the novel.

- The whole story revolves around the fact that Alex is in love with Aidi but she does not want to have a relationship as she is leaving the next year. Nonetheless, they maintain a relationship that is stronger than friendship. Candidates may feel that this is something that they can relate to and as such it is realistic.

- The references to music and the rebellion against parents may be seen as typical teenage behaviour. Alex opposes the bourgeois society in which he lives and all its expectations. Again, some candidates may identify with this.

- As a consequence of his rejection of bourgeois society, Alex befriends Martino, the son of a rich family but an ‘outcast’ like Alex. Martino takes drugs and ends up killing himself after ending up in jail. Candidates may feel that the extreme nature of this situation is less realistic.

<tr>
<td>6(a)</td>
<td>Sei personaggi in cerca d’autore (Luigi Pirandello)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Students may refer to the following in their answers.

Madama Pace appears in Act 2 of the play and the dialogue between her and the Stepdaughter is important for the development of the play and the viewers’ understanding of the characters.

- Madama Pace is a fat, older woman. She is heavily rouged and powdered and she is the ‘madam’ of the brothel where the stepdaughter ends up working. She speaks Italian with a Spanish accent and these key elements of her characterisation highlight the difference between her and the other ‘characters’.

- She is not one of the six original ‘characters’ but she is evoked onto the scene by them. She is born on the stage and it is as if she is summoned onto the stage by the other characters and by the props of her trade. As such, she is symbolically important as she gives a different dimension to the play and the idea of reality.

- She represents the moment of revelation as we discover about the Stepdaughter and the Father. She is representative of the Father's guilt and is key to explaining the complexities and difficulties in the relationship between the Father, the Stepdaughter and the Mother.

- She also prompts the final move where the Father takes the family to live with him and this then leads to the ultimate tragedy with the deaths of the young children. She symbolises a negative force that is essential to the development of the play.
6(b)  Sei personaggi in cerca d’autore (Luigi Pirandello)

Students may refer to the following in their answers.

Pirandello’s interpretation of laughter is somewhat different from the conventional interpretation.

- The idea of laughter is closely linked to the idea of reality and the different realities that we see in the play. It is linked to the immutable nature of the reality for the ‘characters’.

- The humour gives the audience a way in which to relate better to and empathise with the ‘characters’ and understand them more. It is also a means of removing the boundaries of the stage between the audience and the characters.

- The laughter is almost always sardonic and derisory and is best exemplified by the Stepdaughter. This is a literary device that makes the audience think about what is being said.

- The laughter is interlinked with the fact that the ‘characters’ want to be listened to and are looking for an author. It serves to highlight the ridiculous nature of their search and its inherent futility.

Students may refer to the following in their answer.

This is a semi-biographical description of aspects of the daily life of a family.

- The book is an ironic and affectionate chronicle of life in the period between 1920 and 1950, portrayed in terms of habits, behaviour and above all, linguistic communications, from which the book takes its title.

- People and events are brought to life by what they do and what they say and more importantly how they say it. Each character has their own style of speaking and their own jargon. In fact, the language is used to make the family the main theme of the book.

- Facts are not narrated in a strictly chronological way as they follow the flow of the author’s memories so that present, past and future are intermingled. This helps involve the reader in the action and creates a sense of curiosity and a desire to continue reading.

- The author’s language, even when she is not using the family jargon, is quite simple and clear. This makes it easy and pleasant to read. The style is also more formal when she describes events beyond the family.

Students may refer to the following in their answer.
The story is an account of daily life during the period between 1920 and 1950 and as such it covers the period of Fascism and the Second World War in Italy. The war is mentioned in various parts of the book.
- The author’s family must hide in the wine cellar during the bombing of Turin and her parents are forced to leave the city and move to another part of the country. Through this we see the war having an impact on daily life as well as long-term repercussions.
- Although the author does not give many details about the war, we see it as a backdrop to many of the events that affect the family. It has a great impact on her life due to the family separations that happen because of the war, such as her husband’s arrest and death in custody.
- During the war years, the situation of the Jewish people becomes worse as the Germans are trying to arrest Jews and send them to Germany. They therefore must act in a different way so as not to be discovered. |

Students may refer to the following in their answers.

In this thriller about the Mafia, there are anonymous informants who play a considerable role in the story.

- They contribute to the development of the investigations and move the action forward. However, their testimonies are never completely reliable and this adds a sense of uncertainty to the story.

- These characters reveal the connections between the Mafia and politics in this novel. They serve to highlight the corruption that is rife in society, both at a regional and national level, and to show where the real balance of power lies.

- They reveal the power of the Mafia in the society as whoever speaks out against the Mafia ends up dead. Parrinieddu is the main informer and he is central to the investigations as he reveals the identity of the local Mafia boss. He does end up dead as a result.

Students may refer to the following in their answers.

The novel is set at the end of a four-year war and what happens is dictated largely by what has taken place during this war.

- The war has dehumanised people in the society as illustrated by the vicious killing of Nina’s father and brother at the start of the novel. We see that the war has led to people turning on each other.
- Revenge is a key consequence of the war and the desire for this is central to the characterisation in the novel. The first example of this is the murder of Nina’s family but this then leads to a desire for revenge on Nina’s part throughout the novel.
- The war is the backdrop to events in the novel as it shapes the characters into who they are and explains why they behave as they do. Hence, it is a constant presence and as such is fundamental to the development of the characters.
- The society generally reconciles itself with the atrocities and bloodshed of the war and makes peace with itself, as we see at the end when Nina decides not to kill Tito.

|                 | Death is a key theme that features heavily in the novel.
|                 | • The novel begins with the murder of Nina’s father and brother. There is a suggestion that Nina's father has been responsible for the deaths of others during the war and this leads ultimately to his own death. The desire to avenge her father’s death is what motivates Nina throughout the rest of the story.
|                 | • Nina’s family is killed as a result of what has happened in the war and the implication here is that the war has been a bloody one with many deaths.
|                 | • Death is both physical and moral in the sense of a society that has been tainted by the war and the casualties that resulted from it.
|                 | • Death is a constant presence in the novel as we expect Nina to enact her revenge on Tito. This however does not take place but the expectation creates a sense of foreboding and tension as the novel develops. |

Although Cinema Paradiso is primarily the story of Salvatore’s love for cinema, love features in the film in many other aspects.

- His mother loves and supports Salvatore all through his life. When he is a child she makes personal sacrifices to bring him up, she supports him throughout his life in all his decisions without ever putting any pressure on him. Hers is the unconditional love of a mother for her son.

- Salvatore’s relationship with Alfredo depicts another type of love. Alfredo is both Salvatore’s mentor and a substitute father for him. He passes on to the boy his great love for cinema, which will accompany Salvatore through all his life.

- Salvatore’s relationship with Elena which is the defining element of his adolescence. Salvatore will never fully recover when this relationship ends and Elena will remain the only woman he has ever loved in his life.

- However, Salvatore’s true love is cinema. We can see this when he is a child and spends all his free time at the cinema. As a teenager, when Cinema Paradiso reopens, he takes on Alfredo’s job as projectionist and at the time this is his dream job. As an adult, he pursues a career as a film director, achieving great success because he is doing what he loves most.

Different cinematographic techniques are used in the film to provoke a range of reactions in the viewer.

- The key cinematographic technique is the use of flashback. This is used to effectively sequence the events of Salvatore’s life as a child and then as a young man. As such, it adds structure to the narrative and shows us the development of Salvatore through the years.

- Music is another fundamental cinematographic technique that underlines key moments in Salvatore’s life that are laden with emotion and sentiment and it evokes strong feelings in the viewer.

- The use of close-ups serves to make the action more immediate and involves the viewer in the action. This also helps the viewer to form an emotional connection with the character of Salvatore and to develop a greater understanding of the development of his character from a humorous child to a successful yet unhappy film director.

Students may refer to the following in their answers.

The film outlines the lives of three women from three different generations and in so doing reflects the changes that occur in society during the lives of these women.

- Olga was repressed and had to do what her parents expected from her – she married due to the expectation of her parents and society. She leads a life of boredom as she is not allowed to work, again due to societal expectations. These elements reflect the situation in society for middle-class women at the time.

- Olga’s daughter, Ilaria, is much freer that her mother was. She has the possibility to go to university but does not take this opportunity as she goes off the rails and starts taking drugs. Here we see a society that is much freer and with more opportunities for women.

- Marta is totally emancipated, quite self-confident and she has many opportunities such as being able to go abroad to study with no restraints whatsoever. This highlights how far the role of women in society has evolved.

- We also see changes in daily life, e.g. when Olga was younger she had servants at home. The way of dressing, transport and other features of the different eras also highlight the changes in society.

</table>

Students may refer to the following in their answers.

The film is a tragicomic drama. There are many comical elements in the film which then give way to more tragic elements as the film progresses.

- The comic elements are mostly contained in the first half of the film, e.g. the scene where Guido loses control of the car and when he turns up at the school pretending to be an inspector. Such scenes, as well as entertaining the viewer, help to introduce the main characters and help the viewer to get to know them better.

- The comic elements allow the viewer to form an emotional attachment with the main characters and this develops further throughout the film.

- After 45 minutes of comic elements, the film becomes more dramatic. Guido still uses humour, however, to mitigate the cruelty of the Germans and to undermine them in a way. These elements help the viewer to see the horrors of the Holocaust but they soften the shock, especially after the predominantly comic nature of the first part of the film.

- The humorous elements also create in the viewer the expectation of a happy ending and the unexpected death of Guido comes as a shock and brings home the reality of the war.

                 In the film, we see the life of Peppino who opposes the Mafia in Sicily. Rebellion is a central theme to the film and we see this in different aspects of the plot.
                 - Peppino becomes a communist after befriending a local painter from the village. This is an act of rebellion as it goes against the status quo in the town. He starts protesting against the government and their plans.
                 - Peppino publishes an article in the local newspaper. This shows how he is becoming more and more extreme in his hatred for the Mafia and his need to expose the corruption in town. This act initiates the break between him and his family. This is an act of rebellion against the Mafia which permeates the society in which he lives.
                 - The last step in Peppino’s rebellion against the Mafia is his creation of the radio station. He uses this to denounce Don Tano’s participation in the drug trade and he names the Mafia boss on the radio. This act of rebellion ultimately leads to his death. |

Students may refer to the following in their answers.

Poetry plays a significant role in the development of the relationship between Mario and Pablo Neruda, the exiled Chilean poet.

- Through poetry and Pablo Neruda’s influence, Mario learns to express himself better and is therefore able to express his feelings for Beatrice.

- Poetry helps Mario to become better educated and he starts to question the world around him. From this, he develops an interest in politics as Pablo Neruda was a politically-engaged poet. This intellectual development ultimately leads to Mario’s death and is therefore very important in the development of the plot.

- Poetry is universal and it belongs to everyone – everyone can have access to it and we see clearly this in the film. We see the universal appeal of poetry and its ability to impact not only on the characters but also on the viewer.

Students may refer to the following in their answers.
Candidates are free to take a stance here depending on their point of view and are free to interpret these points as they see fit.
- Neruda educates Mario and liberates him from the constraints of his lack of education and those of society. He helps to develop his awareness of the world around him and helps him to be able to woo Beatrice. Thus, he can be seen as a positive influence on Mario.
- Neruda is portrayed negatively when he returns to Chile and he seems to forget Mario quickly. This leaves Mario feeling abandoned and disappointed. Neruda is depicted in a somewhat selfish light here.
- He is much richer than others in the village so he could be regarded as a hypocrite as there is a social divide between him and the other villagers, despite his political views.
- If Mario had not met Pablo Neruda and got involved with poetry, arguably he might not have died as he does. Hence, Neruda can be viewed as a negative force in the film. |

| 15(a)           | La grande bellezza (Paolo Sorrentino)
Students may refer to the following in their answers.
Death and beauty are central themes of the film and can be seen in many scenes.
- Jep has been leading a decadent life of superficial beauty in Rome for decades but his sixty-fifth birthday coincides with the death of a previous girlfriend. Death forces him to take stock of his life and he realises that there is no beauty in his life.
- The lack of real beauty in his life makes him look beyond the extravagant hedonism. His disillusionment is juxtaposed with the timeless and exquisite beauty of Rome itself.
- Death features heavily in the film as many of the characters that Jep develops an attachment to die.
- The viewer can see the beauty of Rome throughout the film, with the shots of the city at different times. The spectator is almost overwhelmed by the beauty of the scenes. In one way, the beauty comforts the viewer from the ugliness of death but at the same time it cannot hide the dark reality of it. |

| 15(b)           | La grande bellezza (Paolo Sorrentino)Students may refer to the following in their answers.Candidates may feel that the depiction of the decadence of Italian society, as exemplified by Roman society in the film, is realistic or not. They are free to draw their own conclusions as long as they can justify their argument.
  - The main character, Jep, is a hedonist who leads a shallow and empty life. This hedonism could be considered an element of decadence in the society.
  - Many other characters are introduced in the film and they all share the same lifestyle as Jep. They live a life based on materialism and appearances. This is another example of decadence.
  - Sorrentino’s intention is to immortalise the decadence of Rome in the Berlusconi-era and as such to present some different aspects of life at the time, so arguably the director views Italian society of the time as one that is characterised by decadence.
  - Some of the scenes may be seen to exaggerate this portrayal, as some of the characters are almost like caricatures and this may make the depiction of Italian society seem less realistic as a result. |

- The examination consists of two tasks.
- The tasks must be conducted in consecutive order.
- Timing for the speaking assessment:
  - Task 1: 6 to 7 minutes (recommended)
  - Task 2: 10 to 11 minutes (recommended)
  - Total assessment time: 21 to 23 minutes, (16 to 18 minutes of speaking plus 5 minutes’ preparation time for Task 1).
- Recommended timings have been given for each task to enable the student to complete each one in sufficient time to access the full range of assessment criteria for both tasks.
- The preparation time for task 1 must be supervised. It must take place outside of the room with an invigilator. The preparation time must be immediately before the examination time.
- Candidates can make notes of up to a maximum of one side of A4 paper in the preparation time.
- Candidates may refer to their notes during the assessment.
- Candidates must not write on the stimulus.
- Candidates must not have access to a dictionary, or any other resource, including a mobile phone, during the preparation and examination time.
- Candidates must return their notes and the stimulus at the end of the assessment.
- Any notes made during the preparation time must be kept by the centre until the end of October in the year the assessment is completed, after which time they should be securely destroyed.
- It is your responsibility to cover all parts of each task to ensure that the candidate has the opportunity to access all parts of the marking criteria.
- It is the invigilator’s responsibility to inform candidates of the two sub-themes from which they can make their choice, and for giving them the correct stimulus card based on that choice.
Task 1 (discussion on a Theme)

- Task 1 is recommended to last from 6 to 7 minutes.
- The candidate is provided with a choice of two cards on two different sub-themes following the sequence outlined by Pearson, (see sequencing grid below).
- The choice of sub-themes is told to the candidate in English by the invigilator immediately prior to the start of the preparation time, using the wording for the sub-themes provided on the randomisation grid, for example, You may choose ‘Media’ or ‘the rise of Mussolini’.
- The candidate must not see the contents of either card until they have chosen the sub-theme, after which they will be given one of the cards.
- The preparation time must begin immediately after the candidate receives the card.

Task 1 part 1

You must:
- ask the candidate which statement they have chosen.
- ask the two compulsory questions relating to the statement (A or B) chosen by the candidate. Questions may be repeated, but rephrasing is not allowed.
- develop the discussion by asking appropriate follow-up questions relating to the subject matter on the stimulus card.

Task 1 part 2

You must broaden the discussion to cover other aspects of the overall Theme. Optional generic questions are provided by Pearson (see below). These are a guide to the questions that you should ask in order to enable the candidate to meet the assessment criteria, i.e. to elicit examples and information to demonstrate their knowledge and understanding of the cultural and social context and to analyse aspects of the Theme by developing and justifying arguments and forming conclusions.

Task 2 (presentation and discussion on candidate’s independent research project)

It is recommended that Task 2 lasts from 10 to 11 minutes.

Task 2 part 1 (independent research presentation)

You must allow the candidate to open with their presentation on written sources used as part of their research. This must not exceed 2 minutes. Candidates are allowed to refer to their RP3 form during the presentation.

Task 2 part 2 (discussion on independent research)

After two minutes, or at the end of the candidate’s presentation if this is under two minutes, you must ask follow-up questions about the candidate’s presentation and then begin a wider exploration of the research as a whole in order to elicit the candidate’s understanding and analysis of the cultural and social context. You should use the key findings and list of sources on their copy of the RP3 form to help them formulate their own questions. Optional generic questions are provided by Pearson as a guide to the questions you should ask in order to enable the candidate to meet the assessment criteria, i.e. to elicit examples and information to demonstrate their knowledge and understanding of the cultural and social context and to analyse aspects of the Theme by developing and justifying arguments and forming conclusions.
Optional generic questions to promote discussion and to enable candidates to analyse aspects of the Theme (Task 1)/analyse their chosen subject of interest (task 2):

- Può farmi un esempio di…?
- Perché dice questo?
- Quali conclusioni possiamo trarre da…?
- Che esempio potresti dare per sostenere questo punto di vista?
- Perché è importante?
- Che cosa rappresenta…?

In both tasks, candidates are expected to ask questions that elicit opinions as part of the natural discourse and to confirm that their own points of view have been understood. Examples of questions that candidates may ask to achieve this are as follows:

- Capisce quello che voglio dire?
- Che cosa pensa di…?
- È d'accordo con me?
- Capisce il mio punto di vista?

Candidates are also expected to take a lead in the discussions.

It is your responsibility to cover all parts of each task and ask appropriate questions to ensure that the candidate is able to access the maximum amount of marks available. You should contribute only brief opinions in response to the candidate’s questions, in order to give students the maximum length of assessment time. The speaking assessment should last between 16 to 18 minutes (plus 5 minutes’ preparation time) and you must ensure that timings are followed. The timing of the assessment begins with the candidate’s first utterance in relation to Task 1. Once the maximum stipulated assessment time has passed, you must bring the assessment to a natural end, allowing the candidate to complete their last sentence.

Sequence of stimulus cards for speaking examination: Task 1

To avoid duplication of stimuli, candidates must be given the cards in the sequence and combination prescribed below.

If you conduct more than 12 speaking examinations in a day (for example in the morning, afternoon and evening sessions), after the 12th candidate, start at the beginning of the sequence again.

If you have a break in the examination schedule (for example morning break, lunchtime), start the next candidate in next order of the sequence. For example, if candidate 4 conducted their examination before morning break, the next candidate after the morning break would be candidate 5.

If you are conducting examinations on more than one day, start each new day at the beginning of the sequence.

Marking guidance for Paper 3: Speaking

This marking guidance is for the use of Pearson-appointed external examiners. The guidance has been included for teacher reference to aid understanding of how the assessment criteria will be applied.

For this paper, there are a number of levels-based mark schemes to be applied to each task.

General guidance for examiners on using levels-based mark schemes

Step 1 Decide on a band

- First of all, you should consider the answer as a whole and then decide which descriptors most closely match the answer and place it in that band. The descriptors for each band indicate the different features that will be seen in the student’s answer for that band.

- When assigning a band you should look at the overall quality of the answer and not focus disproportionately on small and specific parts of the answer where the student has not performed quite as well as the rest or indeed has performed temporarily better. If the answer covers different aspects of different bands of the mark scheme, you should use a ‘best fit’ approach for defining the level. You should then use the variability of the response to help decide the mark within the band, for example if the response is predominantly band 5–8 with a small amount of band 9–12 material, it would be placed in band 5–8 but be awarded a mark near the top of the band because of the band 9–12 content.

Step 2 Decide on a mark

- Once you have decided on a band you will then need to decide on a mark within the band. You will decide on the mark to award based on the quality of the answer; you will award a mark towards the top or bottom of that band depending on how students have evidenced each of the descriptor bullet points.

- You will modify the mark based on how securely the trait descriptors are met at that band.

- You will need to go back through the answer as you apply the mark scheme to clarify points and assure yourself that the band and the mark are appropriate.

Guidance on timing of the speaking assessment

It is the Teacher Examiner’s (TE) responsibility to cover all parts of each task and ask appropriate questions to ensure that the candidate is able to access the maximum amount of marks available. The speaking assessment should last between 16 to 18 minutes in total, and the TE must ensure that timings are followed. The timing of the assessment begins with the candidate’s first utterance in relation to Task 1. Once the maximum stipulated assessment time has passed, the TE must bring the assessment to a natural end, allowing the candidate to complete a final sentence.

Examiners must stop marking at the end of the sentence once the maximum assessment time has passed, even if the recorded conversation has gone beyond the maximum time.
Task 1 (discussion on a theme)

Three mark grids are applied to Task 1:

- knowledge and understanding of society and culture (AO4)
- accuracy and range of language (AO3)
- interaction (AO1).

The knowledge and understanding of society and culture mark grid assesses the students’ ability to communicate information about, and demonstrate appreciation of, different aspects of Italian-speaking culture and society.

Students are also assessed on their ability to respond critically and analytically to different aspects of Italian-speaking culture and society by selecting relevant material, presenting and justifying points of view, developing arguments, drawing conclusions based on understanding and evaluating issues, themes and cultural and social contexts.

When deciding how to reward an answer, examiners should consult both this mark grid as well as the AL speaking task 1: indicative content at the end of the mark scheme, which is associated with each question. Indicative content contains points that students might use to construct their answer. It is possible for an answer to be constructed without mentioning some or all of these points, as long as students provide alternative responses that fulfil the requirements of the question.

Accuracy and range of language mark grid

This mark grid assesses students’ ability to use a range of grammatical structures and vocabulary in order to produce articulate communication with a range of expression. It also assesses students’ ability to apply grammar and syntax accurately and accuracy of pronunciation.

      | ● Accurate language throughout, resulting in coherent speech that is immediately understandable; any errors do not hinder clarity of communication.
      | ● Pronunciation and intonation are accurate, intelligible and authentic-sounding. |
Additional guidance

Complex language is considered to include the following:

- appropriate sequence of tenses in reported speech/indirect statements
- passive voice
- subjunctive mood
- use of relative pronouns
- using extended sentences to express abstract ideas/convey justified arguments that require a range of lexis and structures; for example: conjunctions and pronouns
- using synonyms and a variety of expressions to say things in different ways
- any grammar and structures included in the grammar list that are specific to A Level.

Variation in use of grammatical structures and vocabulary: The traits in the mark grid differentiate between the variation of grammatical structures and vocabulary used by students. Examiners should judge in which mark band to place students and which mark to award, based on the effect that the variety of grammatical structures and vocabulary has on the quality of the communication; the wider the variety, the more articulate the communication will become (see definition of articulate below).

Examples of a variety of grammatical structures and vocabulary are: a selection of different verbs, tenses, adjectives, vocabulary and complex language (see above for definition of complex language) for a variety of purposes, such as to present and justify points of view, develop arguments, draw conclusions based on understanding and evaluate issues.

Articulate: Articulate communication is fluent, effective and coherent, as students control/manipulate the language to express with some ease what they want to say for a number of different purposes. If students are restricted by their language skills, they may not be able to express themselves for all purposes, for example to develop arguments.

Errors: Students are not expected to produce perfect, error-free speech in order to access the top band. The mark grid describes the frequency of errors and the impact that errors have on clarity.

Errors that do not hinder clarity:
- errors that do not affect meaning, for example gender, adjectival agreements
- infrequent errors that do not distract the listener from the content of what is being said.

Errors that hinder clarity:
- errors that make speech difficult to understand immediately (even if the meaning is eventually understood) or errors that force listeners to strain to understand what is meant, for example inappropriate tense formation, mismatch of subject and possessive adjective.
• frequent errors hinder clarity, as they distract the listener from the content of what is being said.

Errors that prevent meaning being conveyed:

• errors that mean the listener cannot understand the message
• errors that convey the wrong message
• errors that make it unclear who is doing the action, i.e. using the incorrect person or the verb
• mother-tongue interference.

NB: these are provided as examples only and do not constitute a finite list.
Task 1 (discussion on a theme (contd.))

Interaction mark grid

| 1–2   | • Interacts with occasional spontaneity to some questions and statements, but requires frequent prompting; occasionally able to sustain the conversation, using communication strategies if necessary; frequent hesitation.
  • Occasionally initiates communication but development often relies on the examiner’s lead; may elicit points of view/check for understanding, though this may appear contrived. |
| 3–4   | • Interacts spontaneously for extended sections of the conversation, responding mostly with assurance but needing occasional prompting; able to sustain most of the conversation, using communication strategies if necessary; occasional hesitation.
  • Initiates communication by frequently taking the lead to develop the conversation; elicits points of view/checks for understanding, although occasionally at an inappropriate moment. |
| 5–6   | • Interacts spontaneously throughout, responding with assurance to questions and statements; able to sustain conversation throughout, using communication strategies if necessary; minimal hesitation.
  • Initiates communication by consistently taking the lead to develop the conversation; elicits points of view/checks for understanding naturally and appropriately at different points in the conversation. |

Additional guidance

Interacts spontaneously: responds to questions and statements that arise as a natural part of the conversation; gives a relevant, impromptu response based on what they have heard.

Communication strategies: strategies that aid communication and allow the conversation to be sustained, for example rephrasing, circumlocution, adjusting the message, asking for clarification/repetition, repair strategies such as self-correction; these strategies enable students to deliver the message when exact vocabulary or expressions are not known.

Elicit points of view/check for understanding: as part of the language of genuine discourse, students are required to engage the examiner in the conversation by asking for their points of view and checking that their own point of view has been understood. They are expected to do this throughout the oral assessment at appropriate points during the conversation.
This constitutes questions such as:

- ‘Capisce quello che voglio dire?’
- ‘Che cosa pensa di...?’
- ‘È d’accordo con me?’
- ‘Capisce il mio punto di vista?’

(The constraints of the assessment mean that the TE should contribute only brief opinions in response to these types of questions, in order to give students the maximum length of assessment time.)
Task 2, Part 1 – independent research presentation

One mark grid is applied to this part of the task: responding to written language in speech (AO2).

Responding to Italian written language in speech mark grid

This grid is used to assess the student’s two-minute presentation only. It is not applied to the discussion that follows the presentation. This mark grid assesses students’ ability to understand and respond in speech to Italian written language that is drawn from a variety of sources and to summarise information from Italian written sources in speech. The written sources will be those that students read in Italian as part of their independent research and they must refer to at least two named Italian written sources during their presentation.

For guidance on what might be included in an oral presentation and how it may be structured, see Indicative content for Task 2 part 1, independent research presentation at the end of the mark scheme.

      • Gives a convincing personal response to the Italian written sources supported with clear justification. |

Additional guidance

Personal response: this is considered to be giving justified opinions, demonstrating engagement with the Italian written sources by making focused comments, giving a reaction to/expressing feelings and thoughts about the Italian written sources.
Task 2, Part 2 – discussion on independent research

Three mark grids are applied to this part of the task:

- knowledge and understanding of society and culture (AO4)
- accuracy and range of language (AO3)

They are also assessed on their ability to respond critically and analytically to different aspects of the Italian-speaking culture and society by selecting relevant material, presenting and justifying points of view, developing arguments, drawing conclusions based on understanding and evaluating issues.

| A     | • Italian women no longer consider themselves in need of male protection certified in society by means of a marriage contract.
  • The idea of cohabitation is no longer considered a taboo due to the many difficulties encountered following a divorce, both financial and practical, e.g. custody of the children.
  • For many practising Catholics, cohabitation is morally acceptable and it is seen as an alternative to marriage, especially among young people.
  • Some Catholics consider cohabitation an offense to the dignity of marriage. They believe that couples who live together before getting married are more likely to divorce. |
| B     | • In Italy, church weddings constitute the only form of marriage validated by the Catholic Church and are therefore the only ones that it approves.
  • Many Italians decide to get married in church because civil ceremonies are seen as a less than ideal experiences.
  • Society is changing, with more marriages ending in divorce since the introduction of the divorce law.
  • Italian society has changed in recent years and consequently so has the concept of family. Divorce is therefore seen as more ‘normal’ and is no longer the stigma that it once was. |

| A     | • Italian teachers give a lot of homework on account of poor results in international tests. Homework consolidates what students learn at school; the Italian system delegates part of a student’s learning to homework.

  • Schools assign homework because it supports work done in class. More hours spent studying at home deliver better results, e.g. every extra hour of homework can give Italian students 15 points in the Maths competence scale.

  • Italian students think that homework is a punishment and resent it. There are too many subjects to study and there is insufficient coordination amongst teachers.

  • More and more parents complain about the excessive workload of students. On the other hand, many parents consider homework essential to academic success. |
| B     | • Italian students have to study for an average of three hours every evening, often covering new topics which are difficult to understand without any teaching.

  • The excessive amount of homework does not allow Italian students to participate in sports or recreational activities which encourage socialisation.

  • Italian teachers think that teaching time in the classroom is not always sufficient and there are too many demands, e.g. very large classes, foreign students needing literacy support and students with learning difficulties.

  • Some Italian teachers think that students should study only at school, not at home. Almost all teachers agree on the need not to overload students with homework. |

| A     | • Youth unemployment is triggered by a weak economy, poor links between schools and business, and organised crime.
• Many full time jobs require significant and relevant experience in the field or in the tasks to be performed.
• Young Italians believe that opportunities in Italy are fewer compared to other countries and say they are willing to move abroad permanently.
• The principal concern for young Italians is the need to get a job: they do not hesitate to accept to work long hours for the same salary or to accept a lower wage for the same job. |
| B     | • Some young Italians do not really want to work. They want an easy job close to their home that is full time, highly paid, with few hours and several months of holidays.
• Many young people do not make the most the job opportunities that are offered to them because they are too comfortable at home or because they have few ambitions.
• For a part of Italian society, unemployed young people do not want to work. According to many Italians, these young people cannot find work because they prefer not to look for it.
• Italy has a high number of NEETs and the majority of Italians believe that young unemployed people contribute towards the impoverishment of the country. |

| A     | Young Italians like the music of some rap artists for its emotional and poetic power, as their lyrics are often about love, fame and the desire for redemption.

   - Italian artists deal with feelings and stories of everyday life; the lyrics speak of the reality that surrounds them in the street, e.g. "Nto’ and Luche" are the voice of street life in Naples.

   - Often parents are quick to criticise the tastes of their children because they do not understand them.

   - Sometimes parents share musical tastes with their children but in general, they tend not to like the musical tastes of young people when it comes to Techno, Metal and other subgenres. |
| B     | The lyrics of some rappers provide harsh criticism of politicians, the church and television and can be seen as a rebellion against society and power. This can arouse feelings of contempt in young people towards everything around them.

   - Some artists are considered idols, but the lyrics of their songs appear to be deliberate in creating controversy and scandal, influencing the minds of young people who are already disillusioned by society, e.g. Fabri Fibra, "100 modi per morire".

   - Music in other languages is relatively popular in Italy, especially music in English and Spanish. It is popular with young people and its strong share of the market is underpinned by advertising and publicity.

   - Although young Italians are very open to foreign music, there is always a place in their heart for simple melodies and a more poetic approach. |

| A     | • There is a relatively high incidence of violence against journalists in Italy: those that investigate corruption and organised crime are the most targeted, e.g. Roberto Saviano.
• Oligarchs exert pressure on journalists by means of censorship and control of information. A handful of Italian publishers control almost all the newspapers, TV, radio, publishing companies and Internet portals.
• Silvio Berlusconi had indirect control of about 90% of broadcast media in Italy. He now owns TV channels and Mondadori, the largest publisher in the country. This means censorship, lack of press freedom and monopoly of the media.
• In the past, RAI journalists, critical of the government, were removed from their positions and RAI channels were excluded from broadcasting political debates before elections. |
| B     | • Journalists should respect the truth about the facts, amend news items that are inaccurate and correct any errors.
• Journalists should respect the right to privacy of every citizen and not publish information about their private life, unless they are transparent and the news is of substantial public interest.
• Many Italians believe that for as long as individuals are the owners of media companies, there will be limitations and constraints. Journalism should be exclusively in the hands of journalists, e.g. the Italian newspaper "Il Fatto quotidiano", which is actually run by a group of journalists.
• Too often, newspaper and television news becomes a means of propaganda for political parties on the right or the left. No one regulates what is being published and broadcast. |

| A         | • There are many Christmas traditions in Italy, including Santa Lucia and ‘La Befana’ both of who bring gifts to children. Italians follow traditional recipes and typical menus at this time, which vary from region to region.
  • The main elements of Christmas for families in Italian speaking countries are the crib and the Christmas tree.
  • Popular and religious traditions are linked mainly to the festivities organised in honour of saints worshipped in different communities, with church services and processions through the streets of the town.
  • Carnival is a popular tradition that goes beyond the religious context. |
| B         | • Some foreign festivals have become part of the tradition of Italian speaking countries over the last few decades, e.g. Halloween.
  • Some foreign festivals provide an opportunity for fun, and these traditional events are celebrated only in local areas or regions and tend to last only a short time, e.g. Chinese New Year.
  • Many traditional events have for some time been organised by younger people who want to maintain the traditions of their local area or region and to experience a sense of belonging. However, some may not see it as something in which young people should get involved.
  • Many traditions are still alive, or have been revived after a period of eclipse, because of the efforts of young people, musicians and local singers. |

| A     | • The arrival of immigrants has led to a new demand for goods and services and at the same time has encouraged employers to hire more people.
• Immigrants pay more taxes and social security contributions than they receive from national welfare in the form of unemployment benefits, pensions, the health service.
• Immigration means maintaining the workforce in those industries that are in decline and ensuring the growth of others, e.g. construction, trade, catering.
• Italy needs immigrants to counter the decline and aging of its population. It is often the immigrant workers who undertake vital social jobs such as home care assistants and domestic workers. |
| B     | • The provision of language training, e.g. local organisation of free language courses has helped immigrants to integrate into society.
• The acquisition of Italian citizenship for immigrants and their children is another positive factor in integration, e.g. Italian citizenship is required for many jobs in the public sector.
• Many writers of foreign origin, the so-called migrant writers, have introduced new elements into the Italian literary language over the last twenty years.
• Ethnic cuisine has had a significant influence on the culinary habits of Italians and some restaurants are today managed by Asian or African chefs, whose fusion menus are becoming increasingly popular. |

| A         | • Possible solutions include obtaining credit for banks in the South of Italy to create investment, attracting investment from abroad and reducing bureaucracy. Environmental and cultural resources could be better used.
• The economy of the South needs to help businesses and increase competition in the market place, which means freeing itself from the burden of the public sector.
• Many of the problems of the South are due to local ruling classes that have worked to preserve the status quo, exploiting their dominant position in this Southern society.
• In the South, there is less investment because the Mafia has created a system that controls many sectors of the economy of the region. |
| B         | • It is sometimes felt that Northern Italians are cold, boring, and workaholics. On the other hand, the perception is often that Southern Italians are noisy, religious, superstitious and over-protective of family life.
• The North of Italy is a more industrial part of the country. There are more universities, jobs, bigger cities, more opportunities and life is faster. The South is more agricultural, with fewer opportunities, smaller towns and a more relaxed way of life. This can lead to stereotyping.
• The warmer climate in the South of Italy certainly has a positive influence on the life and the mood of its inhabitants, who seem to be more open and friendly than those in the North.
• It is often said that people living in the North are generally more rigid and respectful of the law, while in the South people have a more flexible attitude and are less compliant with rules and regulations. |

| A     | • At the end of the war, there was a sharp rise in unemployment and inflation and a sharp fall in wages and salaries. There was also a wave of strikes in factories and widespread discontent at all levels of society.
• The farmers, who had been promised improvements in life and regarding distribution of land, returned from the war to find themselves facing the same problems and the same level of poverty.
• The ruling classes saw the fascist movement as an opportunity to curb social unrest and limit demands of the unions.
• The fascist movement was supported by those who feared a communist revolution along the lines of Russia and Soviet Union. |
| B     | • The 1919 elections were held for the first time according to the system of proportional representation, but women were still excluded from voting
• The “people’s parties”, the socialist and populist ones, benefited from this new system to the detriment of the liberal party.
• Many Italians supported the populist parties because of a climate of fear akin to civil war created by the violence of the fascist gangs and disappointment in relation to government policy.
• Italians voted for the People’s Party, formed by Catholics, because it had ideals of freedom and immediately took an interest in labour issues. |

| A     | • Propaganda in schools meant above all preparing the new generations to accept the fascist system by making them citizens ready to respond to orders and execute directives from superiors. Schools became a recruiting pool.
• With the creation of compulsory organisations, the regime wanted to create future soldiers, men ready to "believe, obey and fight "
• Paramilitary education constituted a fundamental part of fascist pedagogy. The ideal fascist male had to have an athletic body and had to practice gymnastics and physical activity so as to gain the appropriate levels of fitness and stamina.
• The regime tried to regulate the life of citizens: uniforms, marches and drills were the tools by means of which young people had a sense of discipline instilled in them. |
| B     | • Those who refused to become party members could be subjected to persecution as anti-fascists (as defined by the secret political police) and/or accused of political crimes.
• Hundreds of anti-fascists were beaten up, injured or forced to abandon their jobs and therefore lived in fear of political persecution. To escape this persecution, many politicians, intellectuals and artists went into exile.
• Many Italians could not accept the fascist ideology of absolutism, which undermined personal freedom and demanded absolute subordination.
• For many intellectuals and politicians, the foundations of political freedom and popular sovereignty had been subverted by the regime through the so-called “fascist laws”, which gave the state absolute power. |

• The German SS continued with its Nazi programme in Italy, rounding up men to work in Germany, killing its opponents, and facilitating the deportation and extermination of Jews.

• After the armistice was announced, the German SS, supported by the military fascists, retaliated against all those who were considered traitors, e.g. in 1944 Galeazzo Ciano, Mussolini’s son-in-law, was sentenced to death. |
| B     | • Armed groups had made their bases in the mountains, from where they planned their actions of sabotage and guerrilla warfare against the Germans. Local people brought them food, acted as messengers and provided hiding places for them.

• The partisan brigades, helped by locals, ensured the viability of bridges, roads, telegraph and telephone communications, captured German and fascist prisoners, and liberated towns, helping to facilitate the advance of the allies.

• The roles that women too on were varied: from participation in acts of social unrest, to the dangerous missions as messengers in an Italy then divided in two by the 'Gothic Line'.

• Many women looked after the wounded, collected arms, ammunition and clothing and some took part in the harsh and often bloody struggles in the mountains. |

The Comment column demonstrates how the presentation meets the requirements of the assessment criteria in the mark grid Responding to written language in speech.

Independent research question or statement: I numeri degli arrivi di migranti verso l’Italia preoccupano. Il ministro dell’Interno propone degli hotspot galleggianti per identificare i migranti in mare. L’opinione pubblica è divisa.
