Question 1

Leonardo left Brazil three years ago and came to Lisbon in search of a better life. However, he still does not feel truly integrated into Portuguese society, as he explained recently:

“Everything I was familiar with seems to have disappeared. It’s as if I were a tourist here.”

This case is not unusual. Sadly, it is a situation that many immigrants experience when they come up against social and cultural norms different to those they were used to.

Therefore, it is essential that the authorities create support networks that allow immigrants to adapt to their new circumstances and to avoid the feeling of being marginalised.
