Sikhism

It is as a householder (grihasthi), a member of a family, not as one who has withdrawn from the world either to become a student or a hermit, that a Sikh should explore the meaning of God-realization. Again the Guru said, 'The householder who gives all that can be afforded to charity is as pure as the water of the Ganges' (AG 952).

Putting the principles into practice is difficult because the requirement to live like a lotus in a dirty pond, to be in the world but not attached to it, to radiate beauty and remain pure, is hard. It is easier to turn away from the social responsibilities but asceticism and renunciation are rejected. Instead Guru Nanak commanded:

Remain in towns and near the main high roads, but be alert. Do not covet your neighbour's possessions. Without the Name we cannot attain inner peace nor still our inner hunger. The Guru has shown me the real life of the city, the real life of its shops, it is the inner life. We must be traders in truth, moderate in our eating and sleeping. This is true yogism (AG 939).
