(b) Read this extract.

The walls were all hung with large maps, diagrams, scripture prints, lesson boards, etc. Sitting on forms and at desks were scores and scores of children, some decently and respectably clothed, but the majority of them, I am sorry to say, were in a state which is a short remove from total nakedness—no shoes, no stockings, etc., and what little clothing they had seemed nothing but a mass of shreds and patches, filling the mind of the spectator with wonder how they could possibly hold together on their bodies.

5 Read this extract.

I cannot proceed with this account of my visit to the George-yard Ragged School and Church, without expressing my warm admiration of the superintendent. The love he shows to the unfortunate children committed to his care is great; and they appear to love him equally. In fact, in the course of our conversation, he told me that in love for the children consisted his strength, and the means whereby he works.

“In fact, sir,” said he, “we take a boy, wild and entirely uncultivated as it were, from the gutters; now, that boy will not bear the restraint of the school, unless we speedily teach him that we love him, take an affectionate interest in his welfare, and that it is for his own benefit to remain.”

In the extract the writer tries to show that the superintendent is a caring teacher.

Evaluate how successfully this is achieved.

Give THREE reasons for your opinion and use examples from the extract.

Writing

Answer ONE question. You should spend about 45 minutes on this section.

Write your answer in the space provided.

EITHER

- *7 Write a blog with the title ‘Does school prepare us for life?’

A student has started a response to this task.

Some people say that they did not learn anything useful at school, such as how to manage money, cook and look after themselves. Other people point out all the fascinating facts and ideas that they learned at school. So what should be taught at school and why? Here’s what I think.
