General Marking Guidance

- All candidates must receive the same treatment. Examiners must mark the last candidate in exactly the same way as they mark the first.
- Mark schemes should be applied positively. Candidates must be rewarded for what they have shown they can do rather than penalised for omissions.
- Examiners should mark according to the mark scheme – not according to their perception of where the grade boundaries may lie.
- All the marks on the mark scheme are designed to be awarded. Examiners should always award full marks if deserved, i.e. if the answer matches the mark scheme. Examiners should also be prepared to award zero marks if the candidate's response is not worthy of credit according to the mark scheme.
- Where some judgement is required, mark schemes will provide the principles by which marks will be awarded and exemplification/indicative content will not be exhaustive.
- When examiners are in doubt regarding the application of the mark scheme to a candidate's response, a senior examiner must be consulted before a mark is given.
- Crossed out work should be marked unless the candidate has replaced it with an alternative response.

Specific Marking Guidance

When deciding how to reward an answer, examiners should consult both the indicative content and the associated marking grid(s). When using a levels-based mark scheme, the 'best fit' approach should be used.

- Examiners should first decide which descriptor most closely matches the answer and place it in that level.
- The mark awarded within the level will be decided based on the quality of the answer and will be modified according to how securely all bullet points are displayed at that level.
- Indicative content is exactly that – they are factual points that candidates are likely to use to construct their answer.
- It is possible for an answer to be constructed without mentioning some or all of these points, as long as they provide alternative responses to the indicative content that fulfils the requirements of the question. It is the examiner's responsibility to apply their professional judgement to the candidate's response in determining if the answer fulfils the requirements of the question.

Section A

Question Number	Indicative Content
1	Candidates should produce an original script for a presentation in a style and register suitable for their chosen audience, purpose and context, demonstrating expertise and creativity in their use of English and in their use of the stimulus texts. Candidates' presentation scripts may be characterised by: <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>• the use of conventions of the genre</li><li>• predominantly Standard English lexis and grammar</li><li>• standard use of punctuation</li><li>• appropriate lexical fields</li><li>• use of discourse markers to signpost the listener</li><li>• effective rhetorical techniques to engage the audience</li><li>• language to create a relationship with the audience</li><li>• reshaping of material from source texts through techniques such as judicious selection, appropriate quotation or paraphrasing to generate a new and engaging text.</li></ul> N.B. Candidates must use appropriate material from the source texts in their answers; they may also use information from their own experience.

Please refer to the specific marking guidance on page 3 when applying this marking grid.
