Research sheet one

Above is a hot-air balloon that has been concerned by passing clouds, therefore its hidden from view. I have used colourpencils

The girl above has her face hidden behind her hands, therefore her identity is hidden. I have used shading pencils to bring out visual texture and paints to show the sunset.

The girl above has her face covered by hair and her eyes are closed so they are hidden from view. I have used shading pencils to bring out visual texture.

The girl above is the same, however I have tried to develop the idea by painting it in purple. I used watercolour paints to develop the original idea.

The boy has drawn a girl who is asking for help. I have used 4B and 5B pencils to create the drawing.

The letter above has been smudged by ink and has been trampled up, therefore the message is hidden. I have used watercolour paint to try and create the message.

Above is an Arabic scribble that has been burnt up, therefore the words are incomplete making it a hidden code. I have used watercolour paints and gouache to create visual texture.

The woman above is one who is fading away and has been covered by a cotton cloth, so her identity is unknown. I have used a pen and shading pencils to create the drawing.

Research sheet two

The art work above is one that has been done by Hayley Oulrik, who has drawn a girl in a messy bun her face is turned away, which makes her identity hidden. She has used shading pencils to bring out her work.

LADY WITH A MESSY HAIR BUN
Above is an AOS by Hayley Oulrik. As I have redrawn, where her eye is a lady facing away, therefore her identity is hidden. I have used 4B and 5B shading pencils.

To the left is an artwork by Christian Schloe who drew a girl's blowing hair blowing the moon.

Above is an artwork by an unknown artist I came across this work and could not find it to its artist. It is Arabic calligraphy, which is a hidden code.

I have tried to redraw the AOS by Christian Schloe where the girl's hair covers the moon. I have used shading pencils.

Research sheet three

In the above A03, I have combined an A01 of the girl with the hair covering her face, but I have used part of hair to form a bun, which is an A02.

I have used shading pencils.

Above is an A03 in which I have tried to combine the rain letter with the begging boy. I have tried to make the begging boy appear as part of the picture with the letter of the background.

Above is an A03 in which I have tried to combine an A02 of arabic scriptures and an A01 of the lady in the women cloth.

I have used a blue pen, shading pencils and watercolour paints.

Above is an A03, where I have tried to combine two of my A03's. But instead of placing the tree behind the girl, I've decided to replace it with the hot air balloon.
