Preparatory sheet 1

I used Clip Studio Paint, a known art program next to Paint Tool SAI and Photoshop, because its easy for me to Navigate and Customise to my comfort.

Later, I rediscovered on internet True while its more popular in the written word, the Horror disease is still making its rounds in visual art.

It's not as common now as it was in the past but it's still known and there's still comfort being made with it.

Clothing seemed to restrict the concept in a way, without that the victims' 'true nature' is shown.

I then went and explored deeper about how things such as thoughts could be palpably expressed.

Langdon Graves's use of removing facial features is perfect for me to find use of expressing the idea of Clicking upon a set of thoughts and how it completely takes over someone's life.

The Porcubak Disease is a fictional disease where the victim coughs out flower petals when they have an unrequited love. However if labor develops to a point where the victim cracks, thoughts of an unrequited love can easily Crack someone's mind, especially love.

Langdon Graves Face First Assumed to be oil paint Unknown.

Fat Perry Unknown Assumed to be pencil 2013.

Temp use of Silhouettes caught my attention

It's easier for me to spot a mistake on a screen rather than on paper.

I wanted to go digital so that I could avoid complicating myself with traditional art supplies.

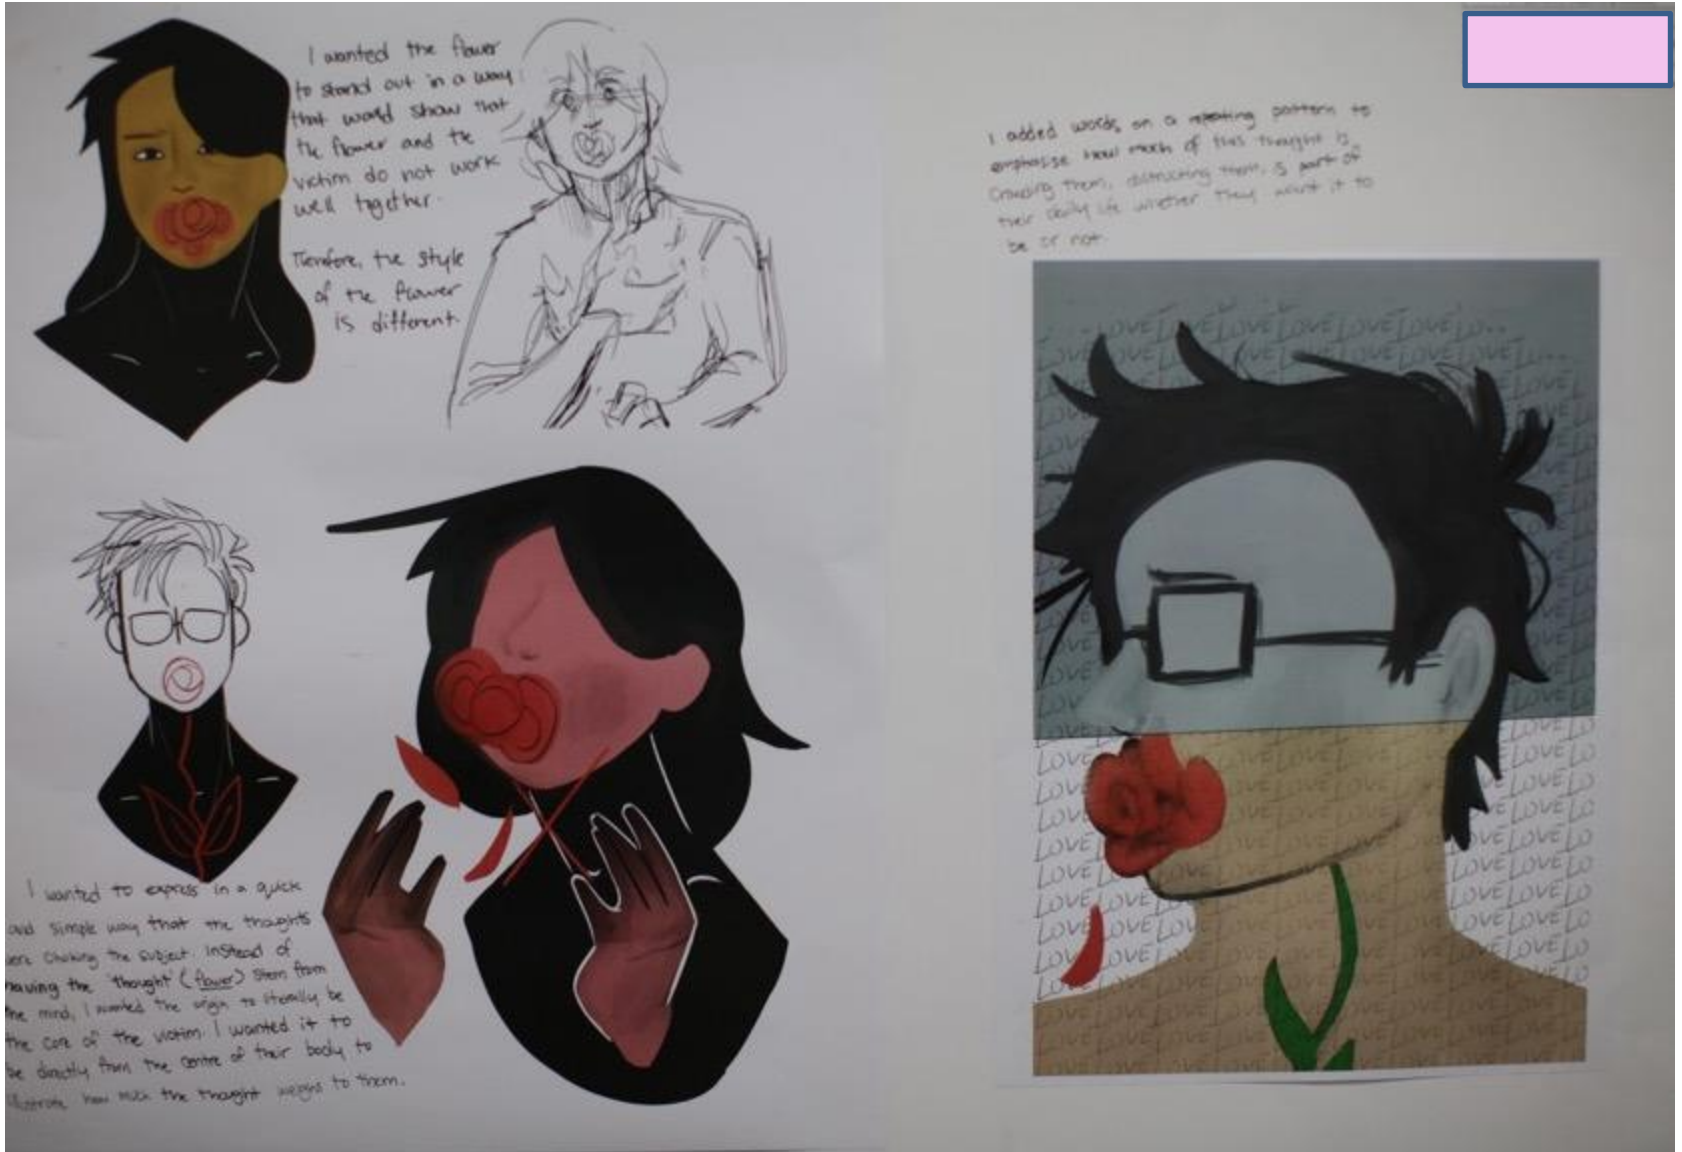

My work is more defined around use of negative space, which be me thinking.

Of course, there's the obvious, Plus all others → They're the most direct non-verbal way to express internal conflict.
