Affordable adventures with extraordinary people

Green Tortoise Adventure Travel (Green Tortoise) is a US-based, long-distance bus tour business. It is a private limited company and was founded in 1973. It offers bus tours in North America, most of which are in the US with some in Mexico and Canada.

Green Tortoise mainly targets travellers on a low budget with the tour price including 70% of meals, all accommodation and transportation. This price is almost always cheaper than the combined price of hostel-based accommodation and transport offered by the least expensive bus operators in the US. 5

The seating in the Green Tortoise buses can be converted into beds, as much of the travel takes place at night. The passengers work with one another each day of the tour to prepare meals, using ingredients and cooking utensils provided. 10

Destinations are not usually well-known tourist areas. Instead, Lyle Kent, the owner of Green Tortoise, aims to make each tour unique to the passengers travelling at the time. Although an itinerary is offered, there are frequent changes to meet the choice of those travelling. Many customers return to travel with Green Tortoise on other tours. Research has shown the number of repeat customers has been falling. 15

Until recently, a maximum of 40 passengers could travel on one Green Tortoise bus with capacity utilisation often at 100%. However, in response to customer feedback and the request for more space, the maximum number of passengers has recently been reduced to 29 passengers. The price was not increased. 20

Golcar Fisheries

Golcar Fisheries is a small shop in a UK village that sells hot takeaway food. It mainly sells fish and chips but a small range of other food and drink items are on the menu. It is a business partnership, owned by Christine Harnett and Wayne Boustead.

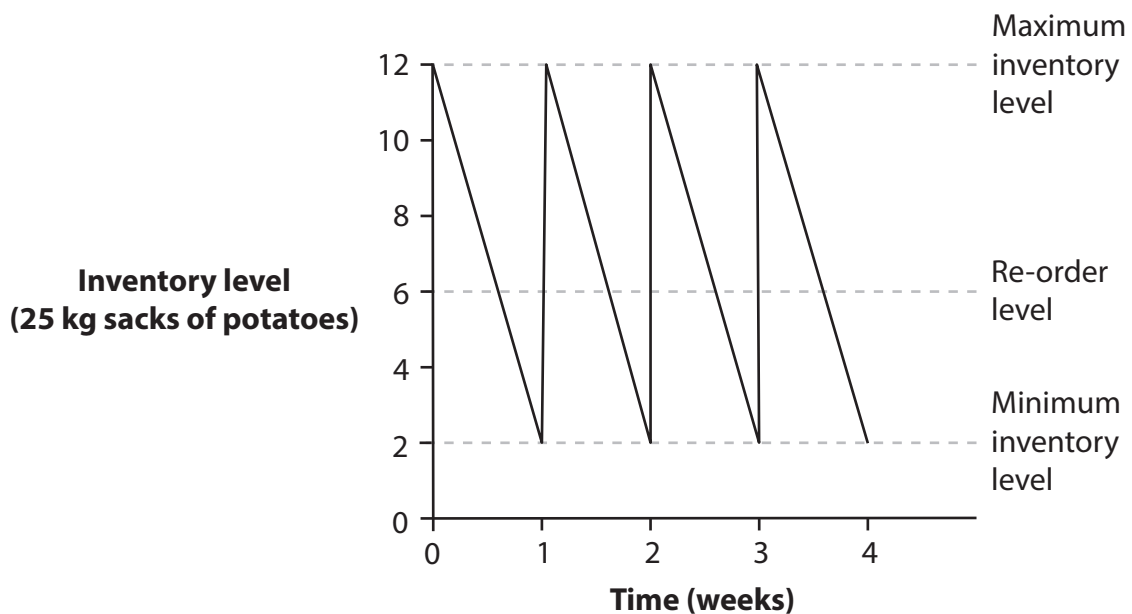

The business has a good reputation in the village for selling quality food and for helping the local community. During the global health crisis, the business was required to close for several months due to government regulations. As a result, it had perishable goods*, including unused sacks of potatoes, that would not be fit for sale when the shop reopened. Wayne placed the potatoes outside the shop for people to take free of charge.

Many customers have been struggling with the cost of living due to increasing prices of food and fuel. Golcar Fisheries offers free meals to school-children during the school holidays to help families manage this problem.

* Perishable goods: food that quickly becomes unsuitable for use.

EIZO* – the Japanese word for ‘image’

EIZO is a world leading manufacturer of computer monitors. This Japanese business has been developing, producing and selling monitors since 1968 and its shares are listed on the Tokyo stock exchange.

Thanks to continuous research and development of high-quality raw materials, EIZO uses only the latest technology when manufacturing its monitors. It is known for its quality and ability to offer an extra-long warranty period of up to five years. 5

EIZO has regional offices in many countries, including Singapore, Australia and Germany. It currently has 2,238 employees. It has a global distribution network, enabling prompt delivery to both business and personal customers all over the world. 10

Credit terms are offered to repeat customers and those buying a large number of monitors. These account for a high percentage of sales as EIZO sells its monitors to different markets including graphics, security and surveillance, business, healthcare and air traffic control.
