

2021 University responses to Teacher Assessed Grades

Last updated April 2021

We are engaging regularly with our global university contacts about the teacher assessed grades process and support for private candidates and are now able to share example feedback from some popular destinations for Pearson Edexcel students. Some of this guidance has been provided directly to our Progression and Recognition team or is available on university websites.

These admissions policy examples show how teacher assessed grades, private candidates who may be unable to supply calculated grades as expected, and evaluations for advanced standing/credit have been factored into the 2021/22 admissions cycle.

This is not intended to be an exhaustive list and students are encouraged to contact their chosen universities directly to get the best advice.

International A level recognition

Where universities only reference calculated GCE A levels grades alone, these policies do apply to International A levels. See our global International A level recognition list for many examples of International A level acceptance for undergraduate study.

We will continue to update this document as new confirmations are received from universities and admissions bodies.
